Dexter home burns

DEXTER — Firre destroyed the Jerry Slinkard home, locate north of town in North Hillbrook Subdivision, about noon Wednesday. the only items saved were a few clothes and a rifle.

The Dexter fire department answered the call about 12:12 p.m. after a neighbor, Don Ross, discovered the blaze, but arrived too late to save the building.

Ross said he was driving to work when he saw flames shooting out of a kitchen window, returned home and called the fire department.

A dog house located several feet behind the house near a propane gas tank was destroyed, but the fire did not reach the tank and the dog was unharmed.

Fire Chief Al Banken said the firemen responded as soon as they received the call but, when they arrived at the scene, the entire house was burning.

No injuries were reported, and Banken said the cause of the fire had not been determined.

Cyclist injured

A motorcyclist was injured at 5:20 p.m. Wednesday when he lost control of his cycle and slid on wet pavement.

James William Hill, 49, of 307 Edmondson Drive was treated for scratches and bruises and released at Missouri Delta Community Hospital.

Police said the accident occurred when Kenneth Lee Dement, 42, of 911 Crescent Drive stopped at the corner of North Ranney and East Center streets, then eased his car forward to see around the corner of Liberty Supermarket.

Hill, who was westbound on Center Street, apparently thought Dement was going to pull into his path and braked, then lost control of his motorcycle which slid on the wet pavement.

No arrests were made police said.

Wallet and radios among items stolen

A wallet containing $200 to $300 and two citizens band radios are among items that have been reported stolen, police said today.

Phil Williams, 73, of 333 Compress Road told police that two men knocked on his door about 9 a.m. Wednesday, said they were going to put a pole in his back yard and asked if they could borrow a tape measure.

Williams said he thought the men were from the Sikeston Light & Water Co. and went to the kitchen to get a tape measure for them. While he was gone, the two went out the front door with his wallet which contained $200 to $300.

Bill Chartrand of Red Bud, Ill., reported a citizens band radio taken from his truck between 8 p.m. Tuesday and 9 a.m. Wednesday while it was parked at Rail Haven Motel, 1701 E. Malone Ave.

The radio was valued at $175.

A citizens band radio belonging to William Wayne McCauley, 846 Ruth St., was taken from a car parked at his home between 8 p.m. Wednesday and 5:30 a.m. today. The radio was valued at $175.

Melvin E. Bell of St. Louis told police he left two brief cases setting in the Holiday Inn parking lot and when he returned, the brief cases were

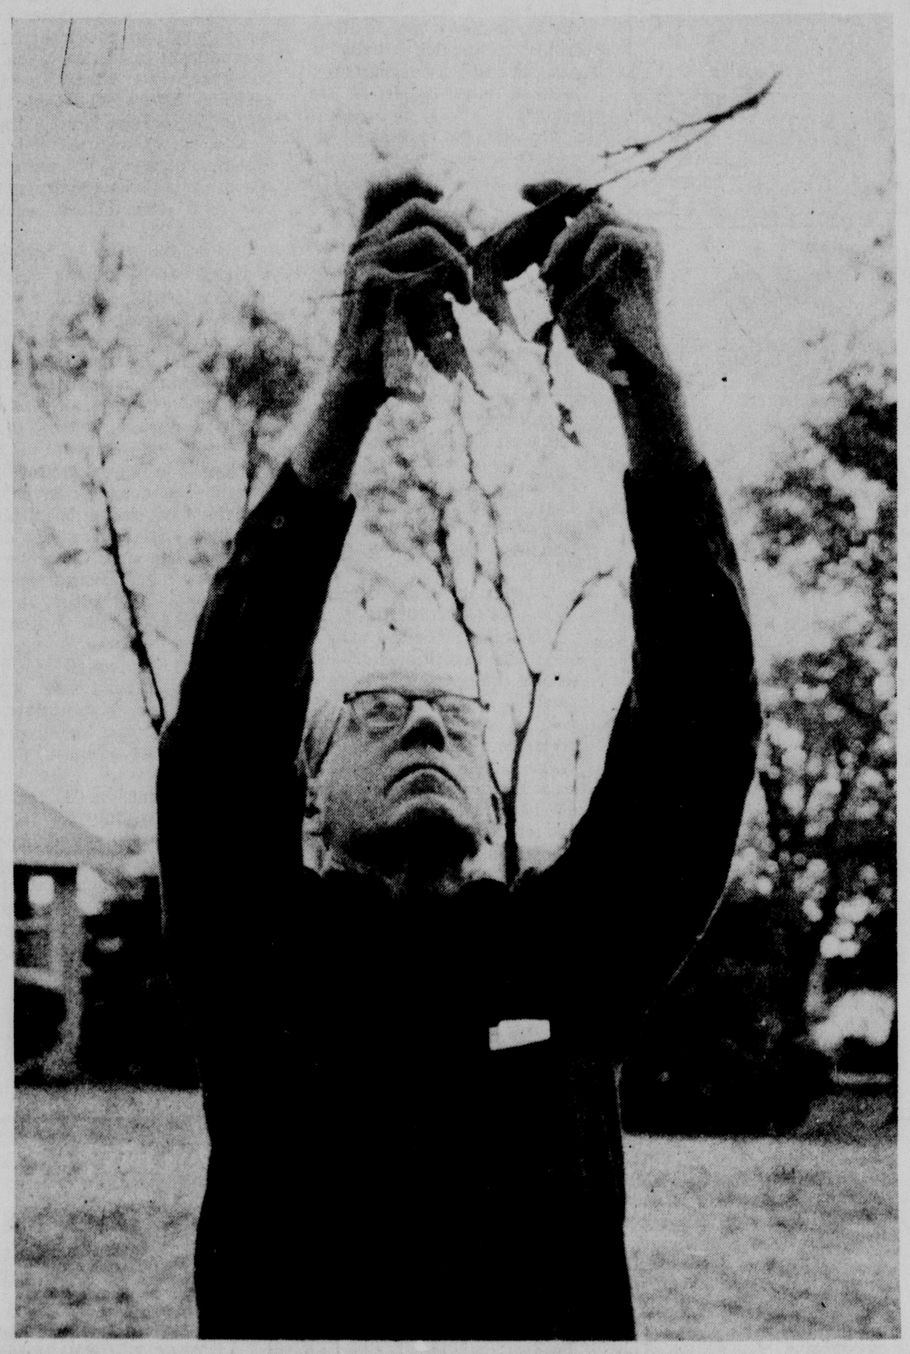
Diamond ring is missing

BLOOMFIELD—Mrs. Pauline Whitener, 15 E. St. Francis Street, Dexter, reported Wednesday that a $1,200 diamond ring was missing, either lost or stolen, the Stoddard County sheriff's department said today.

A report also was received that a bicycle owned by Jimmie Oliver of Essex was stolen Monday from a shed behind his house.



Picking pecans

As winter approaches squirrels are starting to store nuts for the winter. But not so in the back yard of Carl Clayton, 219 Hardin St., who was out early this morning picking pecans from his tree, claiming he wants "to get the nuts before the squirrels do.' A few minutes work netted him several handfuls of nuts. (Daily Standard photo)

October construction tops $316,000 here

Sikeston issued building permits for $316,000 worth of construction in October, according to City Clerk Lynn Lancaster.

Permits issued included:

Smoke routs prisoners

Prisoners gasp for air moments after being brought out of their cells by police. A fire in a mattress in the men's cellblock forced the evacuation of the police station about 1:55 p.m. Wednesday. Two prisoners required treatment for smoke inhalation. (Daily Standard photo)

Wholesale prices jump in October

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wholesale prices leaped 1.8 per cent in October, the biggest monthly rise in a year, the government reported today. The jump indicated that inflation remains a serious problem.

Price tags on new model cars, lumber and textile products were particularly significant in raising prices last month, but the increases were spread almost across the board, the Labor Department said. Farm prices also were up sharply but still about half the rise in September.

October's increase in the wholesale price index followed gains of six-tenths of a per cent in September and eight-tenths of a per cent in August and was the sharpest rise since October, 1974 when wholesale prices rose 2.9 per cent.

With a new spurt at the wholesale level, consumers can expect a substantial rise in the cost of living in the months ahead as changes in wholesale prices eventually show up in retail stores.

Over the last three months, wholesale prices rose at an annual rate of 13.5 per cent, up from a 6 per cent rate in the May-July quarter. However, the rate was still less than half the 29.6 per cent rate the three months ended last October before the recession slowed inflation.

Wholesale prices last month were 5.1 per cent higher than a year ago. The index moved up to 178.9, meaning it cost $178.90 in October to buy the same goods at wholesale which sold for $100 in the 1967 base period.

In a separate report, the Labor Department said quality changes for the 1976 model American-made passenger cars included in the wholesale price index were valued at an average of $12 at manufacturers prices and about $15.60 at retail. These quality changes accounted for about 8 per cent of the average increase of $198 in manufacturers suggested retail prices.

Farm prices rose 2.2 per cent last month, a sharp rate but still significantly less than the 4.3 per cent increase in September. This put farm prices 5.2 per cent above a year ago.

The sharpest increases in agriculture were for live poultry, leaf tobacco and fluid milk. Prices for fresh and dried vegetables dropped in October, while livestock and plant and animal fibers rose much less than in the previous month.

Rocky says he didn't want party squabble

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller said today he renounced a spot on President Ford's 1976 ticket because "I didn't come down here to get caught up in party squabbles ..."

Rockefeller told a news conference that the political fire he has drawn could only divert the President from his more important duties.

Rockefeller said he has had his differences with Ford, and expects to speak out when there are such differences in the future.

But he said "they were not the basic element" in his decision to withdraw as a prospect for the vice presidency.

Rockefeller said he was becoming the issue for Republican conservatives opposing Ford. He said the only way to take the issue out of the Republican picture was to take himself out of the vice presidential running.

Rockefeller said he came to Washington at Ford's nomination to serve the country and help solve national problems.

"But I didn't come down to get caught up in party squabbles which only make it more difficult for the President in a very difficult time, when the problems of the country require his fullest possible attention," Rockefeller said. "And therefore with his complete understanding and concurrence I wrote him the letter.

With it, Rockefeller withdrew as partner on a Ford ticket.

He said that until he did so, "people didn't believe what I was saying" when he insisted he was not a candidate and was leaving it to the President to pick whatever running mate he wanted.

Rockefeller refused to speculate on what he might do if Ford suffers defeats in the early presidential primaries next year and withdraws as a candidate for the White House.

"This is speculation I have not made," Rockefeller said. He said history indicates that an incumbent President will be renominated. And if he isn't? "I have absolutely no speculations on the subject."

Thus Rockefeller did not rule out the possibility that he might, for a fourth time, wind up in presidential competition next year.

The news conference, in the Executive Office Building across the street from the White House, was Rockefeller's first public statement since his Monday announcement that he doesn't want to be considered for the ticket.

Speedster gets quick justice

BENTON — Swift justice followed the arrest Tuesday of Brad Allen Willier, 17, of Oconomowoc, Wisc. who was sentenced to 18 months in jail within two hours after a high speed chase in Scott County that extended into the city of Cape Girardeau and ended in Capaha Park.

Willier pleaded guilty before Magistrate Judge Lloyd Briggs to careless and imprudent driving, failure to stop for a red light and a siren and speeding.

He was sentenced to six months in Scott county jail on each count with the terms to run consecutively.

The chase covering between 15 and 20 miles, began south of the Benton overpass on Interstate 55 at 8:35 a.m. and concluded 12 minutes later at 8:47 a.m.

Highway Patrolman Robert P. Eddleman of Sikeston, who was headed south, clocked Willier with a speedgun going north at 80 m.p.h. Trooper Eddleman crossed the median and gave chase.

Driving at speeds near 120 miles perhour, the chase headed north with Trooper Eddleman radioing for assistance.

Dodging traffic, ignoring traffic lights, with patrol cars close behind, the chase covered several Cape Girardeau streets.

Pedestrians stood agape as they watched the chase proceed. Motorists quickly gave way as they heard the sirens and saw the speeding cars during one of the peak traffic periods of the day.

Coming up on the roadblock near the intersection of Perry avenue and Broadway, the youth spotted the officers. He either lost control or deliberately cut across the curb, knocking down a traffic sign, and drove onto the grass into the park.

Officers involved in the chase said it was one of the most dangerous they had participated in.

The only reason Willier gave for the episode was that he "was having trouble at home."

Motorist seriously hurt

A Lowndes man was seriously injured Wednesday and two Steele women received minor injuries in traffic accidents on area roads,the highway patrol reported today.

In a one-vehicle accident at 3 p.m. on Route E, one mile East of Lowndes in Wayne County, Hubert H. Deckard, 44, of Lowndes was seriously injured when his westbound pickup ran off the road and struck a tree.

He was taken to Veterans Administration Hospital in Poplar Bluff.

Allene Herring, 33, driver of a southbound car, and a passenger, Brenda Kay Thompson, 17, both of Steele, received minor injuries in a pickup-car collision at 1 p.m. Wednesday on Highway 61, one mile north of Holland in Pemiscot County.

The highway patrol said the collision occurred when the Herring car pulled from a county road into the path of a northbound pickup driven by Thomas Lee Wandell, 19, of Steele.

The women were treated at Pemiscot County Memorial Medical Center in Hayti.

Court says no to Cape

BENTON — The Scott County Court this morning rejected the city of Cape Girardeau's request for permission to do extra territorial planning and zoning in Scott County.

The Scott County Court said it will not allow its county to be divided into two planning zones. The judges said they do not know the future policy of Cape Girardeau in Scott County, therefore, by letting Cape Girardeau exercise the proposed zoning law in Scott County could mean a future land grab.

The land and people are in Scott County and until the state changes the constitution on planning and zoning, Scott County will govern that portion, the court said.

Melvin Glueck, judge of the second district, said "We will do our own planning and zoning".

Judge Eldon Ziegenhorn of the first district said "The Scott County planning and zoning will be better than Cape Girardeau's because we know what our peoples' needs are."

Fire at local jail forces evacuation

A fire in a mattress in a jail cell forced evacuation of the Sikeston police station Wednesday afternoon.

Two prisoners have been charged with arson, and one of them, along with another prisoner, was taken to Missouri Delta Community Hospital for treatment of smoke inhalation.

The fire broke out about 1:55 p.m. in the men's cellblock. The fire sent a thick cloud of smoke into the building and forced evacuation of the station.

Five prisoners were in the cell block when the fire broke out. Troy Cureton, 29, of Bell City Route One and James Merriman, Route Four, were taken to Missouri Delta Community Hospital for treatment of smoke inhalation.

Curteon and his brother Wilford Cureton, 22, of Route Four, are being charged with arson, police said.

Both men had been in their cell about an hour when the fire started. Troy Cureton had been arrested for driving while intoxicated, driving without a license and leaving the scene of an accident. Wilford Cureton was charged with public intoxication.

Police officers, wearing gas masks, continued to answer the telephone and dispatch cars while firemen fought the fire and cleared the smoke from the building.

Firemen were at the station for an hour, but it took about another hour for the smoke to be cleared from the cellblock.

The only fire damage was to the mattress, according to Police Chief Leon Culp. He said some of the other mattresses may have to be replaced.

Culp said the department has had prisoners set fire to their mattresses before, but none had produced the volume of smoke this fire did.

BARTER — EAST GERMAN STYLE

Every once in a while interesting revelations occur concerning the human side of East-West relations. This time it is news of the actual purchase by West Germans of prisoners held by East Germany.

The practice has evidently been going on for a long time, ever since the infamous Berlin Wall was erected by the East Germans to prevent the continued flight of much of their population to the West. The east Germans are not, however, above letting these people go for a price. The Bonn government has been paying that price, for sums estimated to range as high as $15,000 per prisoner.

The interesting thing, also, is that the practice is still going on now in about the same way as in the worst days of the cold war. Nothing much has changed as a result of the so-called detente, according to a recent article in the New York Times. It quoted Western sources as saying that since 1969 $80 million had been paid out for 5,000 prisoners. Other reports claimed 2,000 alone had been bartered for in the last year. Many of those ransomed are doctors, for whom the rates are especially high. These physicians have apparently been imprisoned for up to three and one-half years for a crime that is called "flight from the republic," which, we assume, means they simply wanted out.

If money is what it takes to free these unfortunates, then we cannot blame the West Germans for spending their money in such a humanitarian cause. The practice does have its advantages in this case, since it reassures the East Germans that they are not forgotten by their West German compatriots. And once more it helps to illuminate the true face of communism. It is another reminder of why the communists had to build that wall in the first place.

A federal court has ruled that racial discrimination is not a crime if practiced against whites. That is the import of a decision handed down by Judge Thomas D. Lambros of the U.S. District Court for Northern Ohio. Lambros recently dismissed a suit brought by a white postal worker who claimed that he had been denied a job in favor of a less qualified black who was promoted solely for reasons of race. The judge claimed that while it "no doubt seems unjust to the plaintiff," white persons may not file claims of racial discrimination under Title VII of the Civil Rights Act. Officials of the Civil Rights Commission were outraged by the decision and are urging the government to support an appeal.

CAMELOT DESTROYED

Liberated womanhood possesses a surprising twist which its feminist leaders may not have anticipated--for as their roles expand in society, it is predicted that more women will subsequently go to prison.

A definite trend toward equal penalties for equal crimes, with more and longer jail sentences for women resulting, is noted by Mrs. Carolyn A. Handy, a staff worker in the Women's Rights Program of the U.S. Commission on Civil Rights.

Apparently the days of Camelot and damsels in distress are past. Now that the "fairer sex" is also sallying forth in search of their quota of dragons, they must suffer the full consequences, without expecting favoritism, should they run afoul of the lord of the manor.

CAMPAIGN SPENDING LAW CRAMPS GOPs

The political pundits are still mulling over the meaning of New Hampshire's senatorial run-off election in which Democrat John A. Durkin defeated Republican Louis C. Wyman.

As New Hampshire went, not necessarily will the nation go in 1976, of course. But the immediate consensus is that the defeat is a bad omen for the GOP in next year's presidential and congressional races.

The New Hampshire election was more than the first electoral test of the Ford administration, however. It was also the first test of the new federal campaign spending law, and in this respect numerous observers see portents of trouble for the GOP that go far beyond apparent popular dissatisfaction with the President's inability to turn the economy around.

The election dramatically demonstrated the powerful political leverage the new law has given to organized labor, they say. While Durkin, the winner, actually spent about $25,000 less of the over-all campaign ceiling of $220,000 than did Wyman, the loser, he was able to target his spending more effectively because thousands of dollars worth of support contributed by unions was not counted.

For example, union agents working for the Democratic candidate telephoned each of the 45,000 union households in the state several times, mailed literature under cheap bulk rates allowed for nonprofit organizations, distributed absentee ballots and worked house-to-house in some districts on election day.

In addition, the New Hampshire State Labor Council mailed pro-Durkin letters to 47,000 AFL-CIO members, and the heads of several other unions also sent out literature.

Under the campaign spending "reform" law, none of these or other union political activities had to be applied to Durkin's spending limitation because such "in kind" aid is merely the expression of the unions' right to communicate with their members.

According to William Baltaks, regional director for the Republican National Committee, the failure to include "in kind" union contributions in the campaign spending law is going to be "a big problem" for the Republicans.

And it is hardly as if the party did not have enough problems already.

KINDRED SOULS

No segment of American business, industry or consumer-oriented interests should accept, with complacency, the proposition of government-run enterprise in any line of endeavor. America's railroads are an excellent case in point.

It is well to remember that a government-run business operated by different rules than a taxpaying, private business. Deficits are the taxpayer's headache, not management's, in a government business. A private enterprise industry is under constant compulsion to satisfy customers. One private enterprise industry can understand the problems of other similar industries, thus U.S. railroads, as investor- owned taxpaying operations, are keenly aware of the requirements of shippers. A release of the Association of American Railroads illustrates this. It says, "Time is money. And today's railroads are proving the truth of that maxim by saving both time and money--for themselves and their customers--with an operation called the 'run-through'freight train." The run-through "super freights" provide express service from origin to destination, pausing only for such things as crew changes, safety inspections and an occasional quick pickup--or delivery--of pre-blocked sections of cars. In some cases, these run-through trains utilize shortcut tracks to get them around congested areas and keep them rolling. As the Association release states, "This kind of expedited treatment enables the new trains to cut as much as two full days from schedules between Atlantic and Pacific coasts and between other parts of the country."

Why do the railroads undertake efforts such as run-through trains? The answer is simple. As private enterprises, they must meet the needs and demands of kindred enterprises in a thousand fields. Government commercial operations are bound by no such unity of purpose or sense of obligation. The time has come when everyone should think deeply on these fundamental implications of government operation of business enterprise.

THE RETURN OF KING RICHARD

The United States has no royal class. The Constitution, indeed, forbids the granting of titles of nobility.

As a consequence of this prejudice of the Founding Fathers, we are forced to make do as best we can by conferring unofficial royalty on movie stars and other celebrities, on at least one president's widow and now, it would seem, on at least one ex-president.

In a recent issue, Newsweek magazine ran a lengthy cover story on the return of Richard Nixon to the public eye after more than a year of self-imposed exile. We can expect more of the same in the future—how he fills his days, how his health is, how his memoris are coming along, etc.

With the Nixons in retirement, the U.S. may have its equivalent of the Duke and Duchess of Windsor, two likeable people who led essentially useless lives except they provided regular copy for those interested in their doings.

Like the ex-king, the ex-president is a man fallen from a high pinnacle and hence a semitragic and, no doubt to some, a romantic figure. And although like the abdicated king, the abdicated president has no chance of ever regaining a position of power or influence in his country's affairs, he will always be news. The only difference is that he has no title.

COMMUNITY BUILDERS BY NATURE

As local problems pile upon citizens and hometown businesses at an alarming rate, it becomes clear that the retailing industry is best suited to shoulder the responsibility of resolving such problems. In the words of the head of one large retailing firm operating stores in many cities, "The sheer volume of new programs and new regulations places a high premium on local initiative, local priorities, and local teamwork. Only these will insure that the job gets done. As we're caught up in national and international trends far beyond our reach, it's all the more essential that we feel capable of influencing our own future at the local level. As mistrust of big government grows, it's critical that the smaller governments of our local communities work even better."

This retailing firm has helped provide leadership in a campaign to improve local mass transit in Cincinnati where "...it was clear that the city's privately owned transit system was becoming a terminal case." An official of the company was a prime mover in getting the citizens to vote approval of a bond issue to support improved transit. The company is now studying what can be done in all the cities where it has stores. It is doing so out of necessity because, "Retailing can prosper only if our communities have sound transportation systems....Unlike some other businesses, we can't move....Our present and our future are tied to the streets where we live and the streets where we have built our businesses."

The comments of the retail executive are timely. They illustrate the constructive force of common interest and the vast reservoir of resourcefulness which competitive private enterprise can bring to bear on solving many of the seemingly unanswerable problems of our times.

LEAVE IT TO THE OSTRICH

Some people still refuse to face the reality of the petroleum shortage. They find the allegation that oil companies are conspiring to hold out gasoline supplies to boost prices and get other advantages more comforting to their sense of security. Unfortunately, there is a critical shortage, and no spigot can be turned on overnight when "the price is right."

As to the conspiracy fairy tale, an oil company article points out that some 60 federal agencies and bureaus, numerous congressional committees and local agencies which govern industry activities are "...more than sufficient reason to question the credibility of the conspiracy theory." In connection with the problems of supply that independent marketers are having, the situation should be obvious. There is less gasoline available than the people of the United States are accustomed to using. our traditional surplus of gasoline, which independents bought from any company that had gasoline to sell is unavailable due to deficiency in supply. As for the monopoly charge--let the facts speak. Competition is still strong in the industry. It takes 25 of the largest oil companies to account for 66 per cent of the nation's crude oil and natural gas liquids production and 78 percent of the total gasoline market.

Any serious, objective survey of the energy shortage brings the conclusion that hiding one's head in the sand to escape danger better be left to the ostrich. A coordinated national energy policy based on the realities of the petroleum supply situation is imperative. We must develop domestic sources of energy that will free the U.S. from critical dependence on foreign powers. There is no other way.

WASHINGTON--There has been criticism in Washington lately over defense contractors entertaining Pentagon officials at hunting lodges and other places of ill repute. Former Secretary of Defense Schlesinger in referring to Northrop's entertainment policies said, "We have seen only the tip of the iceberg."

The latest word is that one aircraft firm even hired (ital) girls (unital) to accompany the guests on their trips into the woods.

I have a lobbyist friend from an aerospace company who thinks the hunting-lodge scandal is overkill.

Milbank told me, "All we were trying to do was give our senior fighting men some rest and recreation and now they're trying to hang us for it."

"What you say is probably true," I told him, "but you'll have to admit it doesn't look good in the papers that your company was flying high-ranking officers off to shoot pheasant, duck and what have you, while you were trying to sell them rockets and airplanes."

"Do you think a hunting weekend is going to influence a general into buying a certain kind of rocket or airplane? We never even talked about rockets or planes. We never talked about business at all."

"What did you talk about?"

"We talked about our wives and how much we all missed them."

"War is hell," I said. "But I read in the newspapers that you not only provided hunting facilities for Pentagon officials and key staff members of the Armed Services Committee but also female companionship."

"Someone had to do the cooking and the cleaning," he said defensively.

"I'm not doubting your word, but there are some Americans who think you were up to no good."

"Give me their names," Milbank said, "and I'll see that they're fed into a Pentagon computer."

"That's not the point," I replied. "The one thing this country has always prided itself in is the absolute separation of the military from the industrial complexes. Even something as innocent as a hunting weekend with call girls is enough to put this independence into jeopardy."

Milbank said, "Look at it this way. The enlisted men have the USO. The junior officers have the officers' clubs. But where can a general go to have fun? Where can he relax and forget the burdens and cares of leadership? By maintaining hunting lodges we were doing the same thing for generals that Bob Hope was doing for privates. We were building morale."

"Tell me the truth, Milbank. After one of those weekends, have you ever got an order from the Pentagon?"

"Never. Well, almost never. Once I was out shooting with an Air Force general and he got a rabbit with a shotgun I had loaned him. He said, 'This is a helluva gun,' and I said, 'If you think that's a gun, you ought to see one of our AK 450 Red Line Missiles.' He didn't believe me so I set one up and launched it. Sure enough, we wasted a rabbit 30 miles away. That impressed him so much he called me Monday and ordered 4,000 of them. If my general hadn't gone hunting that weekend, this country would have been deprived of one of the finest weapons in its arsenal."

"I would like to have seen that scene on 'The Guns of Autumn.' " I said.

"Well, I guess with all the adverse publicity we're going to have to shut down the hunting lodge for a while," Milbank said.

"What will you do instead?"

"We bought a massage parlor near Alexandria. I'd like to see the Defense Department make something out of that!"

Inside Labor

KKK Rides Again: Meany Charges Ku Klux Klan And Nazis Whip Up Anti-Busing Demonstrators

WASHINGTON - In characteristic style, labor's chief of chiefs George Meany has clobbered anti-school busing unionists who claim support of their local and state organizations -- especially in Kentucky and particularly in Louisvbille. Meany has just written to labor leaders there to cool it; and to get out of the series of anti-busing demonstrations.

So there'd be no doubt where he stood, he added that he believed the demonstrators' emotions were being whipped up by "the Ku Klaux Klan and the American Nazi Party."

There's no doubt the KKK is deep into the constant, politically significant anti-busing protest in Louisville, right up to the tip of its white hoods. And there's no doubt that some Klansmen hope to whip this into an alliance with the "Boston crowd."

All this has irritated Meany and his colleagues. But what makes this series of angry demonstrations different from others in the North, especially from the bloody and riotous Boston anti- busing street action, is the fact that labor unions -- not just the rank and file -- have gotten into the act.

And when aroused, Meany always proceeds to Act Two.

He warned the leaders of the Kentucky AFL-CIO state federation and the Louisville Central Labor Council against lending "any aid or support whatever to those who seek to ignore or to pervert" the AFL-CIO's "wholehearted support of busing of children when it will improve the educational opportunities of the children."

He advised that the AFL-CIO will "oppose the constitutional amendment approach (to end busing -- VR) because it will do a disservice to the quality integrated education which we support."

Meany pointed out in a series of letters to Kentucky labor officials he wanted more than mere neutrality or abstention on their part. Overwhelmingly, the Kentucky labor leaders lost a move at the recent AFL-CIO national convention to force the massive federation to reverse itself on its traditional pro-busing posture. And as far as Meany is concerned, that's that.

"You and the other officers of the Kentucky AFL-CIO have the clear responsibility to implement the policy of the AFL-CIO to the very best of your ability," he wrote.

Speaking for the federation, Meany added: "While individual union members certainly have every right to exercise their constitutional privileges of free speech, they have no right whatever to claim or imply that their actions represent the policy of the AFL-CIO , the Kentucky state AFL-CIO, the Louisville Central Labor Council or any other AFL-CIO organization."

The other day Meany did a double bite on his cigar when he heard that the Kentucky protests were being organized by an anti-busing "Louisville coalition of labor unions."

Last Friday (Oct. 24) they loaded some 41 chartered buses and 90 autos with Louisville anti-busing demostrators and hauled some 3,000 to Washington for a Saturday protest march. This cost upward of $62,000. With them came placards claiming support from the local International Union of Electrical Workers (whose national president Paul Jennings is a veteran philosophical socialist); Carpenters Local 2174; Pipefitters Local 522 as well as machinists and tobacco workers. And some teamsters and auto workers.

So he wouldn't be misunderstood in the slightest, Meany also wrote: "'In short, it is the duty of the Kentucky state AFL-CIO and all local central bodies to implement the policy of the AFL-CIO, stated above, to make sure that Kentucky union members are not misled by demagogues and that they understand and respect the law." And that's his mandate for all labor bodies across the land.

Thus far there's been no reaction. But neither has there been any abatement of the furious anti-busing street action and political organization.

This story had a double thrust. Naturally anti -busing sentiment is strongest in the factory- jammed industrial and urban centers -- the steel areas leading into Pittsburgh, the Detroit auto factory complex, Boston, etc. These are the guts of the American labor movement.

Millions of parents in these megalopolises just don't want busing-period. But it is official AFL-CIO policy to back busing as Meany has laid it on the line. There'll be a clash, to predict the least.

Further, the Wizards, Kludds and other competing Klan leaders see their chance to organize, as once they did, inside "the working class" (now very much middle). Thus you find Klaverns in Detroit, Indiana and even New York.Recently the new "Grand Dragon of the Texas Fiery Knights of the KKK" actually flow into Charleston, W. V.., to declare himself a candidate against the incumbent Arnold Miller for the United Mine Workers presidency.

There isn't much chance of the Klan pulling its white robe over the House of Labor. But turbulence there will be.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

JACK ANDERSON SAYS:
A Call to America
with
LES WHITTEN

WASHINGTON — For the first time since pollsters started asking, most Americans are pessimistic about the future.

No longer, say the pollsters, do we believe our country is moving ahead. No longer are we sure that tomorrow will be better than today. Our leaders, caught in past lies, are no longer believed. Our major institutions -- government, business, the press and the professions -- are held in low regard.

This is an alarming development. For two centuries, the buoyancy of America has been our distinguishing national stamp, the key impression made on foreign visitors from deTocqueville to Solzhenitsyn.

Confidence is what has made us tick. If a vast, tumultuous democracy like ours is to work, there must be a fundamental optimism in the land, an undergirding belief in the nation's purpose and direction.

Our leaders must be sustained by a shared vision of the future if they are to steer boldly at the helm. If only 30 per cent of the people bother to vote and the rest feel it makes no difference who wins, the victor has no mandate. He cannot lead because he has no followers; he can only engate in manipulations.

It would be strange, of course, if the long downpour of badnews had not dampened American spirits. We have much to be sober about – our first war lost; a President deposed in disgrace; his principal aides proved felons; our natural resources running out; our public guardians caught in the shabbiest kinds of harassment directed against our own people; public debts piling up until "government bankruptcy" is no longer a metaphor but a reality; and an economy caught in the intractable vise of both inflation and recession.

In many countries, the public spirit is so deadened that such a series of calamities are accepted as the norm. In others, social order is so fragile that these events would have led to fighting in the streets and to the unraveling of society.

That neither has happened here is a sign of strength. We are so accustomed to success, progress and reasonably honest government as to be stunned by their opposites. We are still confident enough in our institutions to seek redress through lawful processes -- impeachments, hearings, legislation, elections -- and not through violence.

If there is a trremporary exhaustion of the national spirit, as the polls indicate, it is time to shake ourselves out of our melancholy.

During the first of the great wars of survival between Rome and Carthage, there came a time when the spirit of the Roman republic seemed almost extinguished.

During two decades of war, Rome repeatedly had built and sent out fleets against Carthage, the lord of the seas. Victories were won by Rome but nullified by Mediterranean storms which destroyed the fleets.

In the 23rd year of the war, with the economy of Rome almost destroyed and despondency felt in almost every Roman home, the government fell into listlessness and declined to rebuild the fleet on which survival depended.

Then out of the gloom, private citizens came forward. Through voluntary donations, they raised the money to build and man yet another great fleet, which was presented to the state as a gift from the people. It went forth and won the victory that won the war.

We are not at war. The adversary that threatens our cohesion is not always visible. But it is nonetheless a time for individuals to make their gifts to a beleaguered society, not in ships but in other ways -- in sacrifices to reduce needless energy consumption; in increased personal productivity; in time given to citizen efforts to guide youth and fight crime; in warnings to backsliding Congressmen that a retreat from campaign reform will not be tolerated; in willingness to accept the public and private austerities the times require.

Above all, we must offer the gift of the spirit that continues to dream the dream of 200 years. We have overwhelming evidence that the spirit is still alive.

We asked people to tell us their feeling s about the country as we approached the bicentennial in a time of great distress and to reduce their sentiments, if possible, to bicentennial slogans. More than a million slogans have come in.

No one could wade through this putpouring without being optimistic about the long-term health of the American spirit. What comes across is how thin are the ranks of both the mockers and chauvinists among us, how deeply and thoughtfully the great mass of Americans are committed to the idea that our country represents something vitally important to the world.

People describe this "somehing," of course, in different ways -- a freer life, a more equal start, a better chance, a fairer trial, a stronger body of personal rights -- goals never realized but never abandoned, goals achieved more fully here than any place else on eartth.

Foootnote: There is still time, incidentally, for you to submit your slogans. One will become the official bicentennial slogan. Send your entries to Slogans USA, Box 1976, Washington D.C. The deadline is December 1. The finalists will be announced at the Superbowl game on January 18. Then the public will be invited to vote for the slogan they like best. This has the endorsement of the American Revolution Bicentennial Administration.

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — Princess Margaret of Britain has arrived here for a four-day visit at the invitation of friends, the British Embassy said.

The princess, who has just concluded an official visit to Australia, will tour Caracas and other Venezuelan cities before returning to London on Monday.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Singer Diana Ross, who currently is starring in the movie "Mahogany," has given birth to her third child.

The 7-pound, 13-ounce girl was born Wednesday at Cedars of Lebanon Hospital and was named Chudney. Miss Ross and her husband, Robert Silberstein, have two other daughters, 4 and 3.

Miss Ross was once the lead singer with the Supremes, but she left the Motown group several years ago to launch her career as a soloist.

Scott County lists funds disbursement

The Scott County Division of Family Services office disbursed funds totaling $192,553 in October, with the greatest part being paid to the aid to dependent children program.

A total of 1130 families with 2709 children received a total of $143,613 in the aid to dependent children category, averaging $127.09 per family.

Breman L. Montgomery, county director, reports 934 persons received a total of $38,685 in state supplemental payments and are on the combined payroll of state supplemental income and the federal program supplemental security income. This group previously received old age assistance, permanent and total disability or aid to the blind assistance.

Twenty persons received a total of $3,888 in nursing care supplement payments during October.

General relief funds of $6247 went to 98 familes, consisting of 107 persons, with each family check averaging $63.74.

One person received a $120 blind pension.

Child welfare services were provided for 119 children, and 230 children were given preventive services. A total of $3,325.62 expended from the County Court payroll and aid to dependent children-foster care payroll was for 37 children in foster care.

Forty-four adults obtained services during October, with 31 adults receiving protective services and 13 receiving preventive services.

Scott City issue on trash pending

SCOTT CITY — The City Council Monday night, voting with five aldermen present, failed to settle a four-month controversy over mandatory trash pickup in the city.

Four councilmen voted in favor of entering into an agreement with Jack Holder to provide front curb pickup of solid waste, while one councilman abstained.

That vote, however, was not sufficient to put the trash ordinance into effect, said City Attorney Tom Arnold. In searching Missouri statutes, Arnold said he could find no clear declarations on voting except on passing an ordinance, which must have five yes votes out of a board of eight members.

Both Holder and Arlie Jackson on July 8 bid $3 for trash hauling, but at another council meeting on Aug. 8, Holder bid $3 per month for front curb service and $5 per month for alley pickup. At the same time Jackson bid $3.50 for front curb service, but did not submit a bid for alley pickup.

Prior to the hauling controversy, and until the issue is decided, both men have continued to operate their hauling concerns on an independent basis to those subscribers who desire it.

At the August council meeting, Holder's bid was accepted, but Jackson represented by Timothy F. Ruddy, a Cape Girardeau attorney, posed a legal question about whether or not haulers could do their own fee collecting. Since that time, however, another state law has given haulers the right to do their own fee collecting.

More discussion on the matter will follow, the council decided, but alderman Wes Holdcroft asked which bid would be cheapest if the majority of city residents had rear, rather than front pickup. Arnold told him that because Mr. Jackson had not bid on alley pickup, he should not even be considered in the running.

It was announed the council plans several public hearings before Dec. 15 to obtain citizens' views on the city's sewer system and the possibility of a new community building. There is a possibility federal funds may be secured for the projects.

In other business, the council set Nov. 25 as date for election of Ward 3 alderman to fill the unexpired term of the late Marvin Arnold. Fillng deadline is 5 p.m. Nov. 21.

A study of two sets of bids on drag line work on the ditch from Rose-Con Co. to the mobile home park will be conducted.

A bid from Girardeau Contractors for paving 706 feet of street in Cloverdale at a cost of $2.965.20 was opened.

The council appointed Mrs. Linda Davis and Mrs. Grace Ford to the planning and zoning commission. Mayor Cauble said anyone interested in serving on hat body or on the board of adjustments should contact him.

Parma school offers GED course

PARMA — The Parma Community Service Administration is enrolling students for an adult general education development (GED) course to be taught at Parma High School.

The 26-week course is for adults, age 18 and older, and who have not completed high school, and will provide instruction and training to enable them to pass the state GED test and receive a high school equivalency dipolma.

The course will be free to those who qualify within the Community Service Administration income guidelines.

Enrollment has been set for Nov. 17, from 6:30 through 7:30 p.m. in the Area Opportunity Center located in Parma Community Building.

Persons interested in the course should contact the center at telephone number 357-4777.

Mrs. Sadat speaks at college

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — The 150 million people of the Arab world never harbored ill feelings toward Americans, even during periods of misunderstanding, says Mrs. Anwar Sadat.

The wife of Egypt's president, who was in Florida the past four days, told a crowd of 300 at Jacksonville University Tuesday night that "our people stand ready and hopeful, as they have always been, extending the hand of friendship, looking forward to the best of relations with the people and government of the United States of America."

Mrs. Sadat expressed hope that the visit by her husband, herself and their four children will help establish peace and stability through the world.

Program reduces mental retardation

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — A health care program designed to reduce the frequency of mental retardation in children has finally been implemented in Missouri after nearly 18 months' delay.

State Health Division Director Dr. Herbert Domke announced Tuesday that 20 hospitals will offer the special medical treatment program for pregnant women who have complicating conditions which could lead to premature births and mental retardation. Seven hospitals will offer specialized newborn care under the program.

The General Assembly approved the plan in 1974, but Gov. Christopher S. Bond declined to permit the Health Division to issue mandatory regulations for the program while legislative review of the rules was required by the legislature.

The executive offie and the legislature have been at odds in recent years over the issuance of rules by agencies. Some lawmakers have felt the legislature should have the authority to review agency rules and possibly repeal them.

Implementation of the maternal and child care program was permitted when the legislature amended the law this year to removed the requirement that any rules must be issued.

Twenty-two other hospitals have been invted to offer the program, but have not replied,, Domke said. The legislature appropriated $536,000 for the plan this year.

Dr. Ned Smull, chairman of the High Risk Pediatric Patient Advisory Committee for the plan, said it would provide prenatal care to high risk mothers, "increasing the chances that they will have normal healthy babies and their infants, if sick, will receive special postnatal care in leading hospitals with a fully equipped and staffed intensive care unit."

Ann Landers

Angry bachelors dispute happy marriage statistics

Dear Ann Landers: I must say you lie with statistics most convincingly. I refer to your answer on the relative happiness of married men as compared with bachelors. Of course bachelors are 22 more time likely to be in prison. Who wants to marry a felon?

Did it ever occur to you that the chronically ill, the alcoholics and the criminals might be unmarried for just those reasons and not vice versa?

I, for one, resent the implication that without a wife I will immediately fall into a life of crime, drink and an early grave.

How about some fair comparisons of married and unmarried 25-year-old white-collar workers and 30-year-old professional men? Obviously if you lump all the world's unfortunates with the bachelors-by-choice, you're going to come up with a sorry looking lot. (And P.S. How about the financial advantages of not having to support a wife?) -- A Happy Batch

Dear Batch: My mailman must have a hernia from dragging letters written by "Happy Bachlors" -- highly indignant at the statistics quoted in this column recently.

Sorry if I offended so many of you, but those are official government figures. I didn't pull them out of my ear.

They did not state that all single men are alcoholics, criminals, in poor health and destined to die young. Nor did they suggest that all married men are healthy, happy, dry an law-abiding. Those figures reflected the overall picture to which there are undoubtedly millions of exceptions -- on both sides. So, please get off my back, fellas.

P.S. Many bachelors spend a lot more money on their girlfriends than some husbands spend on their wives.

Dear Ann Landers: More and more people are recognizing that males have the menopause, same as women. But doctors and psychiatrists discuss it only in terms of psychological manifestations. Feelings of disappointment, guilt, depression, loss of hope for achievement and a diminishing interest in sex. The assumption seems to be that the physical symptoms are confined to women.

Maybe I'm some sort of nuts but I get the darnedest hot flashes and they drive me crazy. I'm 57, in good health, normal blood pressure, EKG, blood and urinalysis fine. There seems to be no reason for these miserable occurrences.

Maybe they aren't hot flashes in the technical sense, but if they aren't, I'd like to know what in the Sam Hill they are. While they don't last very long, when they occur I feel as if I'm in a blast furnace. Any suggestions, Ann? -- Hot And Bothered

Dear H and B: If you haven't discussed this with a doctor, you should. And if it's any comfort to you, fella, yours is a common complaint, although not many men talk about it. (P.S. Carry a fan. It can be a big help.)

CONFIDENTIAL to Need A Helping Hand: Have you looked at the bottom of your sleeve? I recommend it.

Confused about what's right and what's wrong in today's "new morality"? You're not alone. If you want honest, down-to-earth information on your sex questions, read Ann Landers's new booklet, "High School Sex And How To Deal With It -- A Guide For Teens And Their Parents." Send 50 cents in coin plus a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P. O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120.

Harvest foods... persimmons

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press
Food Editor

A report from USDA reminds us that from fall through the first of the new year persimmons are with us and that there are two main kinds from which to choose. The Oriental persimmon is grown commercially, mostly in California. The native wild persimmon flourishes from Connecticut southward to Florida and westward to Texas and Kansas.

From our own research we'd say that one of the oldest and most interesting American regional dishes made with the persimmon is a pudding, worthy of including in a roster of Bicentennial recipes. Cooks in various "pockets" of the United States have their favorite ways of preparing this dessert.

One especially delicious way seems to be indigenous to the middle region of North Carolina. Cooks there often add sweet potato to their persimmon puddings. In Clayton, N.D., a town a dozen miles or so from Raleigh, Mrs. Louie Allen—known locally for her fine cooking—has devised one of the best of these recipes.

Mrs. Allen, an active septuagenarian, still climbs a neighbor's cultivated wild persimmon tree to capture the fruit not felled by frost!

MRS. LOUIE ALLEN'S PERSIMMON PUDDING

2 to 2½ cups flour (fork stir to aerate before measuring), see below
½ tsp. baking soda
½ tsp. salt
1 tsp. cinnamon
1 tsp. nutmeg
2 cups pulp from commercially grown or wild persimmons, see below
3 eggs
¾ cup granulated sugar
¾ cup firmly packed light brown sugar
3 Tbsp. butter or margarine, melted
1 ½ cups milk
1 ½ cups loosely packed coarsely grated sweet potato
1 cup loosely packed fresh grated or canned flaked coconut

On wax paper thoroughly stir together the flour, baking soda, salt, cinnamon and nutmeg. In a large mixing bowl beat together until blended the persimmon pulp, eggs, sugars and butter. Add flour mixture and milk and beat until blended. Stir in sweet potato and coconut. Turn into a buttered oblong glass baking dish (about 13 by 9 by 2 inches) or similar utensil. Bake in a preheated 325-degree oven until a knife inserted in center comes out clean—about one hour. Serve warm (or reheat) with or without whipped cream.

Flour: If using pulp from commercially grown persimmons, add the largest amount of flour given above; if using pulp from wild persimmons you may need to decrease the flour because they may be less juicy.

Persimmon pulp: In preparing it, use soft persimmons, letting them stand at room temperature for several days if necessary to soften. Rinse; remove stems; cut in half and remove seeds. (The number of seeds seems to vary in commercially grown persimmons. Wild persimmons, we are told, have clusters of five or six seeds and these may be difficult but not impossible to remove.) Puree persimmons through a food mill, discarding the skins.

walnuts

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press

PRALINED WALNUTS

¼ tsp. walt
¼ tsp. cinnamon
¼ tsp. nutmeg
2 cups walnuts
1 cup sugar
One- third cup water
¼ cup light corn syrup

In a small mixing bowl stir together the salt, cinnamon and nutmeg; add walnuts and toss together well. In a heavy two quart saucepan stir together the sugar, water and corn syrup; cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until sugar is dissolved and mixture comes to a boil. Continue boiling, stirring occasionally, until temperature reaches 235 degrees on a candy thermometer or until a teaspoon of the mixture dropped into a cup of very cold water forms a soft ball that flattens on removal from the water-about 5 or 6 minutes.

Remove from heat and add the walnut mixture; stir until syrup mixture begins to thicken and look opague. Pour in a spreading motion onto a well-buttered cookie sheet; at once, using two forks, separate nuts into small clusters. Cool completely and store in a tightly closed plastic bag in a tightly covered tin box. Makes about one pound.

Note: Large broken pieces of walnuts with some halves, just as they come from a one-pound see-through bag, are fine to use in this recipe.

Girl Scouts to sell cookies Tuesday

The 1975 Girl Scout cookie sale will begin Tuesday and last until Nov. 21. The products ordered during this time will be delivered sometime between Jan. 30 and Feb. 6.

A new product this year will be tea. The girls will still have the six varieties of cookies.

All profit from these sales is shared with each girl's troop and used to supprt Camp Latonka at Lake Wappapello. This year they hope to be able to build a new infirmary and small troop winter cabin.

The Cotton Boll Council is very pleased to have one of the lowest camping fees of $35 per session of any camp and that the girl scout troops are able to use the camp all winter at no cost.

Cookie sales this year will help the girl, area camp, and the community.

Heritage House event calendar

Next Wednesday and Thursday, the Heritage House will sponsor a blood pressure clinic from 9:30 a.m. to 11:30 a.m.

Also on Wednesday, the Retired Teachers Association will meet at 10 a.m. and the Full Gospel Business Men's Fellowship will meet at 7:30 p.m., Saturday.

Evening out will be at 6 p.m., Nov. 15 and will feature chow mein.

A dance party is scheduled for Nov. 21 at 7 p.m. with a small band directed by Will McCanless. Each third Friday ballroom and square dancing music will be offered.

Boy Scouts, ages 12 to 14, are available on weekends to run errands, do small chores and play games. For this service, leave your name, address and telephone number at the Heritage House office.

Job Swap, a new innovation, allows men and women to do small favors for others. If there is something that needs to be done, name it. There will be someone who can do that service and you may return a favor for your helper.

Household hints

Get out that pressure cooker and use it on occasion for a dish you usually prepare in the oven because surface heat uses less fuel than oven heat.

Household hints

Pomegranates are in season and pomegranate juice is delicious to drink. In preparing it, stay away from a metal juicer because it may discolor the juice.

Household hints

When you are freezing leftover turkey and dressing put the meat and the stuffing in separate small containers. The use of small containers is advised so that the center of the package as well as the sides will freeze quickly. Microbiologists suggest this method as a safeguard against food poisoning.

ABC apologizes to MU for football halftime segment

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — The American Broadcasting Company apologized for the halftime film segment shown during the Missouri-Nebraska football game Saturday.

The film showed students interviewed at a local bar intimating that Missouri was a party school.

Producer Chuck Howard of the American Broadcasting Company wired the following statement to Carrie Francke, president of the Missouri Students Association:

"I disagree we, in any way, insulted the University of Missouri in our telecast Saturday. What was attempted was to portray an honest assessment of the importance of intercollegiate football to the undergraduate student body of the University of Missouri. I am sorry if the segment offended any members of what is a first class university."

The interviewer in the film asked the students, "What do you do out here 150 miles from nowhere when the football season is over?"

One of the girls replied, "We just live for football. Nothing else is important, classes or anything else. We just live for Friday, when we start to party and get ready for the game."

Another commented that Missouri was not "academically inclined." Still another said, "Football is important here."

Several complaints of the handling of the film segment were received at the university. There were no organized campus protests or demonstrations.

"We weren't directly involved in organizing the filming," said Mel Sheehan, Missouri athletic director. "If we were misrepresented, which I would agree we were from what I've heard, there is no way to correct it, if we don't get a chance to be televised again."

David Lindstrom, a Columbia city councilman, said, "To think that the university is only an institution that lives for football is pretty demeaning in itself. It was an extremely unfortunate interview. I think both the network and the individuals who granted the interview should do some rethinking and try to present a more accurate picture."

Malden council curbs mayor's expense account

MALDEN — The Malden City Council has asked Mayor Sparrel Davis to keep records of his expenditures, turn in expense vouchers and obtain council permission for any expense over $100.

This action came in a special meeting Oct. 29, when the council met with representatives of Chambers and Lang Bookkeeping Service and the city attorney to discuss city finances.

Mayor Davis receives a salary of $250 per month and has, in the past, received an additional $250 per month for expenses.

Davis said the $250 per month for expenses is the result of a meeting of a past finance committee and that when he assumed office for his present term he began receiving the check.

According to the mayor, the $250 expense money is little enough for the endless calls, countless problems of the city both in and out of the city which are made on a daily basis. He gave the example of use of his auto and three hours spent at a Boy Scout recognition dinner Monday night.

"Had I not been mayor, I would not have been involved and I would not have attended the dinner. As the mayor, it is my privilege to welcome the scouts to the new community center," he said.

Davis said he did not believe the council considered like requirements demanded of his office and that he did not intend to submit a voucher for "every little trip" he made on behalf of the city.

The council asked the city attorney to check the legality of the expenditures of the community (building) center. The council agreed that if any illegal expenditures from revenue-sharing funds have been made, they should be corrected.

Davis said he estimated $41,000 has been spent on the center and that all expenditures have been legal.

The council discussed Councilman Floyd Lee drawing an expense account rather than a salary because he was drawing full benefits from Social Security and his income was limited to that entitled by Social Security. Lee reportedly stated that if he cannot be paid by an expense account, he would donate his entire pay to the Retired Seniors Volunteer Program in order to remain on the council.

It was also determined that City Council members were, based on the opinion of the city attorney, legally entitled to health insurance. The city has been paying the premiums on health and hospitalization insurance for members of the City Council, the mayor and other elected officials. This amounts to $26.33 per member per month.

Kiwanians hear about honey

Jim Stewart of Matthews described the honey business to Kiwanis Club members Tuesday night at the El Capri Restaurant.

Stewart, who is in the business with his father, E.W. Stewart, said their beehives are located from Arkansas to just north of Sikeston. Honey from their operation is packaged in 55-gallon drums and sold to processors.

The Stewarts consider bees as livestock in that they must be fed during the winter. Stewart also described the important part bees play in the pollenization of blooming crops.

Fruit cakes were distributed to members by Jim Hux, chairman of the fruit cake promotion.

It was announced that the Farmer's Recognition Banquet scheduled Tuesday night will replace the regular Kiwanis meeting.

On the back of the Great Seal of the United States, which appears on the $1 bill, is an unfinished pyramid, a symbol of material strength, an enduring foundation for future growth and a goal of perfection.

Monday is an 'off daze'

By JACKIE SCHOENEMAN

Monday off. It did not sound like much of a threat on the face of it. But when The Daily Standard began publishing a Sunday edition, Monday, as a working day, was axed.

Also axed was not only my work week equilibrium but my off-hour pace. I'm firmly convinced a person has a routine that affects his personal life as well as time spent at the office. Your body and mind send out signals to keep everything in harmony.

A bunch of bally-hoo? No so. The first crossed signal occurred about 3 a.m. the first Monday. I tossed and turned only because my mind was in a turmoil over whether to be prepared to wake up in a few hours for work or to snuggle down into the covers for Monday – my day off.

The whole Monday experience, however, is laced with guilt. While driving down the highway, I see truckers movin' goods in a romantic sort of way across the nation. Meanwhile, I'm going to the grocery store for lettuce and tomatoes.

And while munching lazily on salad to stretch the noon hour, harried secretaries fox trot it back to the office before the 1 p.m. lunch hour deadline. It's the working world and I'm not part of it.

The TV drones on sleepily with soap operas while preschool youngsters in the park scream with delight at their leisure time.

The apartment house is quite. Almost everyone is punching the time clock. At home, I slam doors and bang down glasses for a little life.

Weirdly enough, trying to coordinate grocery shopping, washing clothes and so on becomes insurmountable. What happened to tougher problems? they're at the office and I am not.

People on the street or in a parking lot look at you with scolding eyes. They are thinking either I lost my job or am taking sick leave that isn't. All because Monday has become my day off.

A whole day of housework is mind-blowing. Dirt pops out in every crook and cranny because I was too busy to find it before. Cleanliness is next to godliness but I'm not pushing for a favor.

I want my Monday working day back so Tuesdays will again be free of the Monday blues.

And the dirt gets another reprieve from my Monday-day-off frustration.

Pulitzer winner criticizes stories on Watergate

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — Bob Woodward, one of the two Washington Post reporters who won the Pulitzer Prize for their Watergate stories, criticized those who continue to dwell on the Watergate affair.

"I think anybody who's clamoring for more is sort of clamoring for more blood," Woodward said Wednesday night at Yale University's Trumbull College.

"I think we know what happened in Watergate and I think it would be a healthy thing for the country to get to other matters that loom very, very large," he said.

Mrs. Dot Halstead, executive secretary of the New Madrid Chamber of Commerce, arranges watercolor sketches of red-tailed hawks by artist David Plank, whose watercolors, drawings and prints of birds of Missouri and the Midwest will be featured in an exhibition opening Sunday at the New Madrid Museum and Chamber of Commerce building. First of monthly art exhibits slated

NEW MADRID–Watercolors, drawings and prints of birds of Missouri and the Midwest by artist David Plank will be featured at the first art exhibit to be held in the newly opened New Madrid Museum and Chamber of Commerce building, No. 1 Main St.

An open house and reception from 1 to 5 p.m. Sunday has been planned for the exhibit opening and for the public to meet the guest artist, according to Mrs. Dot Halstead, executive secretary of the Chamber of Commerce.

The exhibit marks the first in a series of monthly exhibits at the museum, featuring various art media prepared for the touring exhibit program of the Missouri State Council on the Arts.

Plank, 41, who was born at Salem, grew up in a rural setting close to nature. As a young boy he was fascinated by the birds and mammals of his native Ozark area.

He started sketching birds at an early age, and now over 7,000 sketches later, his keenly developed powers of observation and sensitive artistry are apparent in his rendering of the birds of Mid-America.

All Plank's paintings are based on sketches from life, done in many hours of field observation.

Plank's works will remain on display at the museum through November.

Val Mitchell honored 'Citizen of the Year'

MALDEN—C.L. "Val" Mitchell, retired businessman, is Malden's Citizen of the Year for 1975. Mitchell and six other local men were honored Monday night at the Malden Lions Club's first community service awards dinner.

Distinguished citizen certificates of appreciation for dedicated services to the community, their church and their fellow men were presented to Mitchell, Ray J. Moreau, Raymond Santie, John A. Downing, Wilbur Thornton and Allen Black.

A similar award was presented posthumously to Mrs. Otto Green in recognition of the many years of dedicated community service of the late Charles Otto Green.

A special plaque was presented to Mitchell designating him as Citizen of the Year by Jack B. Chadsey, master of ceremonies.

Chadsey paid tribute to Mitchell for the many years of outstanding services on behalf of the community. He pointed out that Mitchell came to Malden in 1916 from Memphis and has been a vital part of the city ever since. He has served his community in various and sundry capacities over the years.

He served as a member and also as chairman of the Board of Public Works for many years. He has served as a member of the County Highway Commission since 1941. He was instrumental in helping to secure Malden's first major industry, Reed Shirt Manufacturing Co., back in the late 1930s. He has served on numerous United Fund boards and other charitable organizations. A devout Christian, he has been a staunch supporter of the Presbyterian Church and has served on boards of the Presbyterian Orphans Home and The School of the Ozarks. He is one of the charter members of the Malden Lions Club, founded in 1925.

E.M. Diersing, president of the Malden Lions Club, said that a special committee assisted a Lions Club committee in making the nominations for the awards.

The dinner was held at the Chat 'n Chew Restaurant. Entertainment was provided by the Malden High School chorus.

SAN FRANCISCO PLAYS IN CONCORD

CONCORD, Calif. (AP) — The San Francisco Symphony will play five concerts at the new Concord Pavilion, starting Aug. 15 with an all-Beethoven program.

On Aug. 16 Andre Watts will be pianist for Tchaikovsky's "Piano Concerto No. 1." On Aug. 22 Edo de Waart will conduct an all-Brahms program highlighting Misha Dichter in the "Piano Concerto No. 2." Today in U.S. history

By The Associated Press

Today is Thursday, November 6, the 310th day of 1975. There are 55 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1860, Abraham Lincoln was elected the 16th president of the U.S.

On this date:

In 1792, George Washington was re-elected president.

In 1913, the British arrested Indian nationalist Mahatma Gandhi.

In 1926, Benito Mussilini prohibited all opposition parties in Italy.

In 1928, election returns showed that Herbert Hoover had defeated Alfred Smith in a hard-fought presidential contest.

In 1942, a tidal wave killed 10,000 people in India.

In 1956, Dwight Eisenhower was the winner in a presidential election, defeating Adlai Stevenson.

Ten years ago: Cuba and the U.S. agreed on an arrangement to airlift 3,000-4,000 emigrants from Cuba to the U.S. each month.

Five years ago: Italy formally recognized Communist China.

One year ago: the Soviet Union called for Palestinian statehood as part of any Middle East settlement.

Today's birthday: novelist James Jones is 54 years old.

Thought for today: Never buy what you do not want because it is cheap. — President Thomas Jefferson, 1743-1827.

Searching for Treasure Creates Exciting Life

TREASURE HUNTER—H. Beasom Painter, shown aboard the 30-foot Chinese junk that sits in front of his home in Richland, Wash., is a veteran of expeditions that have taken him all over the world in search of archaeological artifacts.

RICHLAND, Wash. (AP) — The Pacific Ocean is 200 miles from the home of H. Beasom Painter, but the 30-foot Chinese junk that sits in front of his house — with its intricately carved dragons and teak decks — is not out of place if you know the man.

For he is a treasure hunter who has been to "The Sacred Well" on Mexico's Yucatan Peninsula; searched for sunken gold intended for Jamestown; and slept with natives on the jungle floor, braving snakes and nine-inch tarantulas.

Besides being an engineer at the Fast Flux Test Facility at Hanford, Painter is a member of Expeditions Unlimited, a Pampano Beach, Fla., corporation specializing in recovering valuable archaeological artifacts.

Although the company still conducts expeditions all over the world, Painter's last trip for it was in 1968 when he directed excavation of a sacrificial well in the old city of Chichen Itza, built by the Mayan Indians. He said the well was used by the Mayans more than 1,000 years ago to pay tribute to their rain god, Chac.

To satisfy Chac, the Indians threw in great quantities of gold and jewels — and children. The expedition found remains of 400 persons.

"Most of the ones we found were those of young boys, and not virgins as depicted in history," Painter said as he fingered a small gold ring recovered from the well.

He said most of the jewelry and artifacts recovered are now on display in Mexican museums.

"It's hard to put a value on those artifacts," he said. them priceless."

Painter learned his traveling ways from his contractor father who traveled about the world, spending many years in China, where Painter grew up.

Painter, who is "somewhere over 40," wears his graying hair in a short pony tail. He said his job at Hanford has allowed him more time for his family, and he has turned down several offers from Expeditions Unlimited, one of which was a search for Inca gold in the Ecuador jungles.

"Beasom Painter is the kind of guy who will get things done when other people say it can't be done," said Norman Scott, Expedition Unlimited president, in a telephone interview. "I need people who will keep their cool and stay together, even in nerve wracking situations."

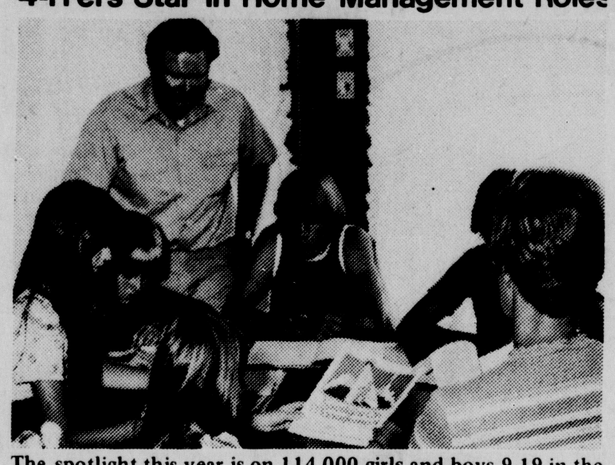
4-H'ers Star In Home Management Roles



The spotlight this year is on 114,000 girls and boys 9-19 in the national 4-H home management program sponsored by Tupperware Home Parties. Under the supervision of the Cooperative Extension Service, 4-H'ers learn by doing to set realistic goals, put their plans into action and evaluate the results—all steps to starring roles in the management scenario.

CHICAGO—"Americans tend to think of money as their only valuable resource," says Carolyn Gaddis, family resource management specialist with the Louisiana Cooperative Extension Service.

"However," she says, "It's important to look closely at another resource that we seem to have less and less of as we become busier and busier. That resource is time."

Use resources to advantage

Time, money, energy, skills, material things, brain power: all are valuable resources. Learning to mobilize them to reach specific personal and household goals are 114,000 girls and boys from 9 to 19 in the national 4-H home management program.

4-H'ers will be aided this year by "Spotlight on Management," a new 32-page member manual in "lights, camera, action" format. The manual was developed jointly by the Cooperative Extension Service, the National 4-H Service Committee, and Tupperware Home Parties. It focuses on the four steps to effective management: setting a goal, planning how to reach it, acting to put the plan in motion, and checking up on the results.

Learning by doing

4-H members learn that decision making is what management is all about. They might tackle family food bills and come up with cost-cutting techniques. Or organize personal work schedules that set realistic goals and conserve time and energy.

Whatever projects they choose, 4-H'ers can earn awards donated by Tupperware Home Parties and arranged by the National 4-H Service Committee. Eight outstanding 4-H'ers are awarded national college scholarships of $1,000.

Born March 11, 1936 in Bragg City, Mo., he was a son of Katie Mae Robbins of Marston, who survives, and the late William D. Sawyer.

He was employed as a maintenance worker by the city of Chicago.

Services are scheduled at 2 p.m. Friday in DeLisle Funeral Home at Portageville, Mo., with the Rev. Johnny Little officiating.

Burial will be in Portageville Cemetery.

Cape man charged iwth hash import

NEW YORK (AP) — A Missouri antique dealer and an Illinois photographer were being held in lieu of $15,000 bail after they were charged Wednesday with bringing $4 million worth of hashish from Iran in a camper.

Frederick S. Leuckel, 25, of Cape Girardeau, Mo., and Joseph Sherlag, 27, of Cambria, Ill., were accused of illegally importing 1,000 pounds of the drug. Authorities said the drug was worth $2 million wholesale and about twice that amount on the street.

The hashish was concealed in foil-wrapped bricks under the truckbed of the camper, which was shipped to New York from Iran aboard the freighter Arya Pas, authorities said. A trained dog sniffed out the hashish while the van was still aboard the freighter after its arrival Oct. 26, officials said.

Leuckel and Sherlag could get a maximum of five years in prison and $15,000 fine each on the charges.

The Himalayas are located on the southern edge of the Plateau of Tibet. Most of the world's highest mountain peaks are found there.

New 4-H president

Club officers

Bell, who is employed by the Missouri Commission on Human Rights, said he put the brief cases down beside his car early Wednesday morning and then forgot about them.

He said he discovered them missing when he got to Caruthersville. He returned to Sikeston about 9 a.m. and the brief cases were gone and had not been turned in at the motel desk.

He said the brief cases and their contents, mostly papers and cassette tapes, were valued at $70.

Scouting award given to couple from Malden

MALDEN — Mr. and Mrs. Dean Noe, Route Two, were among persons honored at the Sioux Boy Scout District recognition dinner Monday evening in the Malden Community Center. Mr. and Mrs. Noe each received the Award of Merit, the highest award presented within the district.

As the award was presented to Mrs. Noe, Bill West of Dexter, who made the presentation, remarked that it was the second time in the history of the Sioux District that the award had been presented to a woman. Others in the crowd of approximately 75 persons could not recall a simultaneous presentation to husband and wife.

The couple received the awards for their efforts in scouting, community affairs, church work and working with youth other than scouting.

Cliff Manlove of Dexter also was presented the Award of Merit, and West was presented the Silver Beaver, which is the highest award in the council.

Sioux District officers elected were Manlove, chairman; L. D. Fish, Lilbourn, vice chairman; Mack Whatley, Gideon, district commissioner; Carl Townsend, Malden, activities chairman; Bill Jones, Lilbourn, advancement chairman; Bob Keathley, Bernie, finance chairman; and Tom Womack, Parma, round-table commissioner.

Mayor Sparrel W. Davis welcomed the group, and the Malden High School jazz band, under the direction of Mrs. Dorothy Faughn, provided the entertainment.

'March of Conquest' begins

KILOMETER EIGHT, Inside Spanish Sahara (AP) — In scenes reminiscent of a biblical epic, tens of thousands of Moroccan volunteers walked 5½ miles through a blinding dust storm in searing desert heat today on their "March of Conquest" into the Spanish Sahara.

They walked for three hours to a point just four kilometers (2½ miles) away from the Spanish so-called "dissuasion line" of alleged minefields, barbed wire and heavy armored units. No incidents were reported.

A senior police officer controlling the march said, "We will stay here overnight and tomorrow morning, we will see."

The Moroccan government radio said the volunteers jubilantly hoisted the Moroccan flag over a Spanish fort as they began their march.

The Spanish cabinet met in Madrid to discuss the march into the disputed territory. A Spanish government official said the column was nearly a half mile wide and a little over a mile inside the border when the cabinet began meeting.

An eyewitness account of the march, broadcast by the Moroccan government radio, said four Spanish F5 jet fighters continuously overflew the marchers at very low altitude "but failed to intimidate them," and that two Spanish helicopters hovered nearby, observing the progress of the marchers.

The advance column encountered no opposition, the Moroccan radio said. Spain and Algeria had threatened military action and Spain warned that a minefield waited eight miles inside the border of the disputed territory. The Spanish army pulled back eight miles from the border last week.

A commentator who said he was broadcasting from the border said all the unarmed marchers who had massed there before dawn crossed into the Spanish colonial territory near the white-painted border fort of Tah, and soon hoisted the Moroccan flag over its walls.

He did not say how many persons were in the first wave, but said Premier Ahmed Osman and other high-ranking officials were with the marchers. An earlier broadcast said thousands of trucks and buses carried marchers from the tent camps around Tarfaya to the border 18 miles to the south.

Gomez did not say whether Spanish troops had orders to open fire on the marchers.

Could you use four more exemptions on your Federal income taxes?

A husband and wife interested in a tax-deductible retirement program may now qualify for a Metropolitan Individual Retirement Annuity (IRA).

A working couple with no pension plan other than Social Security may each have a separate IRA and may both contribute up to the maximum based on their separate earnings: 15%, or up to $1,500—whichever is less. Together, they may annually contribute as much as $3,000 to their tax-sheltered retirement fund, if their earnings permit the maximum contribution by each.

And even if only a husband or wife is eligible, as a couple, they still enjoy added tax benefits with only one member of the family enrolled in an IRA.

Call me if you're interested in discussing the possibility of the equivalent of two or four more exemptions on your Federal income tax.

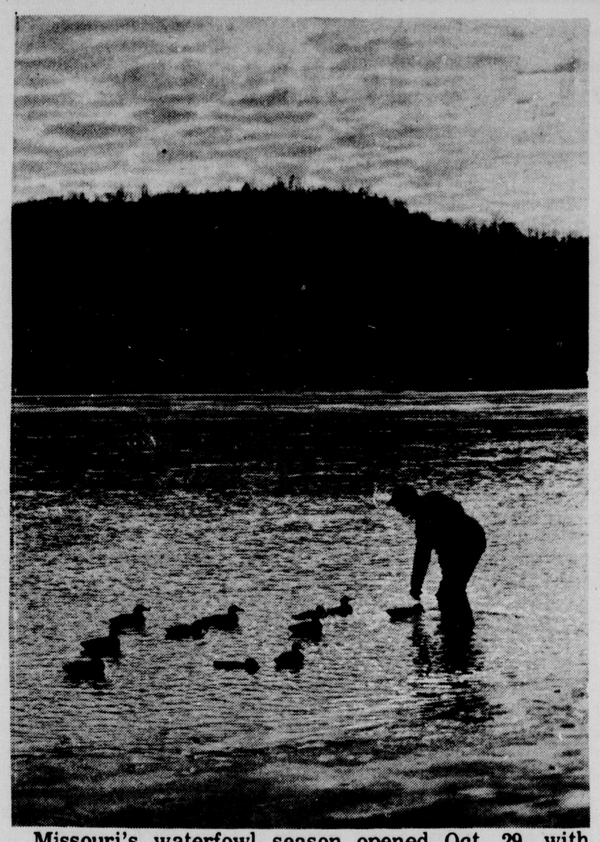
MIDTOWNER VILLAGE SIKESTON, MO. 471-0940



Missouri's waterfowl season opened Oct. 29, with excellent prospects. All waterfowl areas report plentiful food for migrating birds and most have good water except the Swan Lake- Fountain Grove area, which has low water conditions. Duck hunters have a point system. Swan Lake goose hunters have the most liberal quota, 25,000 birds, since 1968. (Department of Conservation photo)

Greg Johnson honored in 3-A; Indians still ranked third

Charleston Bluejay tailback Greg Johnson has been chosen as Class 3-A Player of the Week, and Southeast Missouri's only team among the top ten statewide in their class, Jackson, clung to the third spot in Class 3-A, according to the latest Missouri High School Football Poll as released by the Missouri Sportswriters and Sportscasters Association.

Johnson rushed for 219 yards and three touchdowns in the Bluejays' 33-27 upset of Poplar Bluff to earn him the Player of the Week honors. It marked the second week in a row that a Semo player had received such recognition. Jackson's Mark Dumey received the honor two weeks ago.

Dumey's team, the Indians, held on to their number three position among 3-A schools with an impressive 14-0 victory over Sikeston. The Class 3-A poll was identical to the one a week ago, with all ten teams claiming victories.

The biggest shakeup came in class 4-A, where Kirkwood took over the top spot. St. Louis Southwest, which had been ranked number one, lost to Sumner 6-0 and fell to fourth in the poll. Horton Watkins, last week's number two 4-A squad, also lost and is now ranked fifth. Raytown South quarterback Mark McIntosh, who passed for 269 yards and two TD's against Hickman Hills, was voted 4-A Player of the Week.

Country Day retained their one-two rankings in Class 2-A, but Seneca, ranked third last week, lost to Bentonville, Arkansas and fell all the way to eighth. Most of the other 2-A teams gained a position in the poll. Osage halfback John Ash scored on touchdown runs of 80 and 84 yards for 2-A Player of the Week honors.

Orrick and Tarkio are still ranked one and two in Class A. Two new teams to the poll, Cass-Midway and Jasper, are now ranked ninth and tenth. Jasper's Carl Zaerr rushed for 150 yards against Lockwood to earn the Player of the Week award.

Here is this week's poll, with last week's position in parentheses:

By DALE FORBIS

'Way back in September you could see it starting. There was a good crowd at the first Sikeston football game against Farmington and a pretty good bunch followed the still- struggling team to Caruthersville. It seemed that the student body at SHS was determined to support their classmates and team members all year, despite any losses. Considering the totally rotten weather, there was also a good group onhand against Perryville and I remember many of them staying at the park after the game, dripping, unwilling to leave for just a while – savoring that first win. With five more wins in a row and outstanding crowds at road games against Charleston and Cape Central, the stage was set last Friday for a huge homecoming crowd and no one was disappointed. Well, actually we should say no one was disappointed by the size of the crowd. The game was disappointing, a 14-0 loss to a too- lightly regarded Jackson Indian team. Coaches stressed that Jackson was strong all week long and they had taught and taught, but it's just too hard to keep the fire and spirit high after an exhilarating win like the one at cape. Although the team did wake up and play good ball the last half against Jackson, it was (pardon the cliche) too little, too late.

According to at least one team member, Jackson was the best team Sikeston has faced all year. Losing to them was hard to take, but the deflation of defeat is tempered somewhat by the knowledge that the Indians are probably the district's toughest team. They have no more talent than Sikeston's next opponent, the Mules of Poplar Bluff, but they sure use what they have to its greatest extent. We salute coach Paul Webber and his assistants for assembling quite a football armada. We wish they had played a stronger schedule, because it may preclude their involvement in post season playoffs. We know that, if they make it, the Indians would be a fine representative of the district. What a shootout that will be when Jackson faces Charleston a week from this Friday -- that is if Jackson isn't involved in the playoffs. Complicated somewhat, isn't it?

This week's games present some problems and some supposedly "easy" picks:

SIKESTON AT POPLAR BLUFF — The Bulldogs are picked by the panel, 4-3, as favorites on the Mulle home turf. A Sikeston win clinches at least a part of the title for Sikeston and, surprisingly, Sikeston has been more successful against Mule teams at P.B. than at home. However, only a fool would take Poplar Bluff and the Moss Moving Machine too lightly. We're sure Sikeston won't and we feel the Mules may let down after being all but eliminated from the conference race by the Charleston Blue Jays last week. We'll lean to Sikeston because we are admittedly and unabashedly prejudiced, Sikeston 16, Poplar Bluff 14.

CHARLESTON AT CAPE — The Jays, with five wins in a row, are a 6-1 pick over Cape Central. The Tigers installed Lacey Bernard at quarterback and he got them 45 points, but the opponents were the hapless Kennett Indians. Cape's defense is tough, but Sikeston beat it and Charleston is a quicker offensive team than SHS. We think Cape's offense will move, but not enough against Greg Johnson, Ralph Mitchell and Clint Clark. The speedburners by two, Charleston 34, Cape Central 22.

PERRYVILLE AT JACKSON — Pity the poor Buccos! Jackson showed Sikeston fans a powerful defense and quick running backs. Perryville has trouble scoring against good defenses and that's just what they'll see at Jackson. Jackson 40, Perryville 0.

DEXTER AT KENNETT — We don't mean to undermine either team, but both are very weak this year. Dexter will be seeing a lot of big schools next year and, if they're going to beat any of them they will have to start somewhere. They'd like it to be at Kennett. Nobody will win this game, somebody will just lose it. The panel says Kennett in four of seven votes and we'll stick by the Indians. Kennett 7, Dexter 6.

CARUTHERSVILLE AT CHAFFEE — Caruthersville might have some temporary problems with that sticky Chaffee defense, but the Devils won't score, so the Tigers will stay on the winning track. Caruthersville 19, Chaffee 0.

EAST PRAIRIE AT GOSNELL — The point-hungry Eagles shouldn't have a lot of trouble runningup another embarrassing score on their opponents to the South. The panel goes a clean sweep for the 8-1 Eagles in their season's finale. East Prairie 42, Gosnell 13.

DONIPHAN AT HAYTI — The panel says 6-1 Doniphan. O-K, Doniphan it is. Doniphan 26, Hayti 6.

ILLMO-SCOTT CITY AT PORTAGEVILLE — The Rams have improved during the season and have an outside shot at a playoff spot. Portageville would like to end those hopes with an upset but the panel says nosir. Scott City 20, Portageville 8.

SOUTH PEMISCOT AT MALDEN — Malden is a solid pick. Greenwave 25, Bulldogs 13.

We'd like to start campaigning early for somekind of recognition for Sikeston quarterback Ron Priday after this season is over. With all the headlines given the duo of Wilder and Bean, Priday's accomplishments have been momentarily overlooked. He has averaged nearly 30 yards a game more total offense than the man in second, among the conference's single-callers, he has also been the catalyst that generated some ground-gaining by the offense. When the Bulldogs offense finally started to move, against Charleston, it was Priday's 124 yards leading the way. While his passing stats aren't eye-popping, Sikeston doesn't pass much at all, and more than a dozen of number 12's tosses have been dropped -- that adds to quite a percentage when you've thrown just sixty times. Do your own comparisons with the stats we have available on the conference quarterbacks:

	Games	Rush. Yard.	Pass. Yard.	Total Yard.	Aver. Yard.
Baker, KENN	7	-92	532	440	62.9
Edington, PB	7	207	2629	469	67.0
Law, JACKSON	8	312	342	654	81.8
Hess, CHAR	8	50	671	721	90.1
Priday, SIK	9	653	390	1043	115.9

The point of the opening paragraph (which you can now reread, if the fish isn't wrapped in it), was that the crowds have been growing all year and we think now would be a rotten time to desert this hard-working Bulldog team. Actually, we harbor no deep seated fear that the Sikeston fans will leave their team and we are sure that they will go with the Bulldogs to Poplar Bluff for this all-important season's finale. From the sports staff at the Standard, Good Luck Bulldogs!

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich. (AP) — Ron Wilson and Buzz Schneider posted two goals each Wednesday night to lead the U.S. Olympics team to its 18th hockey victory in 24 games, clobbering Lake Superior, 9-4.

Lake Superior's Bob Clemens also had two goals. The Lakers now are 2-1 for the season.

Mules next for SHS

By ROBERT VAUGHAN

Coach Horton was talking to the defensive players during their pre-game warm-ups.

"Do you know what those boys did to you?" he asked. "They dumped dirt, Jackson dirt, on your field. Do you like that?"

"NO!"

"Are you going to take that?"

NO!"

"Then what are you going to do about it?"

"Shove their faces in it," the boys shouted.

When Sikeston took the field before a huge crowd, they were psyched, primed, and ready. But the fortunes of the contest smiled favorably upon the Jackson Indians, and lightning struck twice in the first half.

When the Bulldogs returned to the locker room for the halftime break, they were down by two touchdowns,but not down in spirit. They took the field in the second half and played one of the best 24 minutes of football they've played all year. Twice they stopped Jackson inside our 20, and once inside our five yard line.

But Jackson played a brilliant defense. Even when forced to punt from their own endzone they refused to give us good field position and the punt sailed over the head of the Sikeston safetyman, and rolled an incredible 68 yards.

Sikeston was defeated, but the young gladiators weren't beaten. They fought doggedly until the very end, actually outgaining the Indians in the second half. They managed to preserve even in their defeat the pride and spirit they have brought to the 1975 football year.

This week, Sikeston plays the archenemy of all enemies when they meet Poplar Bluff. The Sikeston - Charleston rivalry is older, and very spirited, but most Sikestonians wish well for Charleston when we aren't playing them. Not so for Poplar Bluff. The Bluff game is of such intensity that the rest of the season pales in insignificance when the two teams take the field.

That's in a normal year. But this isn't a normal year. Sikeston is playing for the championship, and Poplar Bluff, which was on everybody's preseason poll as the number one conference team, suddenly finds themselves with two losses. They will be playing Sikeston to avoid the humiliation of being classified, on paper at least, as mediocre. They will be mad as wet hens, stung by their loss to Charleston, and anxious for revenge. And they'll be on their home ground.

PB's record doesn't fool anyone. They are a powerful, explosive football team. Right now, they are like a tiger who has just had a whisker pulled out. It's too late to slap the person who jerked the whisker, but for the next person to come along, watch out!

Sikeston is the next person. We meet them this Friday. Are we up to the challenge? On balance, I have to say yes. I have a gut feeling, (the same feeling which let me win a coke bet in the Charleston- Poplar Bluff game) which says that Sikeston is about to begin a new period of football dominance in Southeast Missouri. I believe that Sikeston is going to be a power to be reckoned with for the next three or four years. And the seniors of 76, the guys who will be playing in their last game, want a share of that. They deserve it, they fought and battled and scrapped until they put us on the ramparts of future glory ... so why shouldn't they have some of it for themselves?.

I think they can do it. I think they can go over to Poplar Bluff, on PB's soil, walk right up to the snarling tiger and jerk another whisker and say, "We are back, PB. What are you going to do about it?"

PHILADELPHIA (AP)— Philadelphia Eagles' running back James McAlister cut his right hand in practice Wednesday and is listed as questionable for Sunday's National Football League game with the St. Louis Cardinals here.

A team spokesman said McAlister, who gained 64 of the Eagles' 97 rushing yards in the 42-3 loss to the Los Angeles Rams Monday, had been slated to start against St. Louis. Tom Sullivan is the regular starter in the position.

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — The Professional Bowlers Association has announced the scheduling of an $80,000 tournament at Toledo's Imperial Lanes, April 6-10, one of 16 on the PBA winter tour.

Imperial Lanes has held a PBA even each year since 1966. The first tournament had a total of $38,000 in prize money.

Defending Toledo champion Louie Moore of Columbus, Ohio, will be back, along with such established PBA stars as Earl Anthony, Dick Weber, Carmen Salvino, Don Johnson, Ed Ressler and Jim Stefanich.

ATLANTA (AP) — Atlanta Manager Dave Bristol says the National League club has hired former base-stealing king Maury Wills to help tutor the Braves in that art next spring training.

"I talked to Maury at the World Series," said Bristol Wednesday, "and he said he'd be happy to help. He gave me the dates he would be available and his phone number."

Wills held the all-time base stealing record of 104 in one season until Lou Brock of the St. Louis Cardinals snapped it with 118 in 1973, 11 years after Wills' mark.

WORCESTER, Mass. (AP) — Ed Doherty, head football coach at Holy Cross, will leave for "personal and private reasons" after the current season.

School officials said a screening committee will be named to start considering applicants to replace Doherty, who has been coach of the Crusaders for five years.

Holy Cross, 1-6 meets undefeated Massachusetts at Amherst Saturday.

What's the law?

The case of the shiftless employe

By JACK STRAUSS, LL.B.

Mr. Popkin decided to have the room of his house repaired and hired Snuffy Wimple to do the job. And while Snuffy was a conscientious worker, he had an assistant who was such a steady worker he was practicly motionless. In fact, he hardly exerted himself at all.

As example, when he finished smoking a cigarete, instead of flinging it clear of the house, he simply flipped it onto the roof a few feet away from where he was standing.

A few minutes later, Mr. Popkins house was all aglow. It caught fire from the cigarette and Mr. Popkin sued Snuffy for the demise of his house.

"He can't sue me," protested Snuffy in court. "I didn't burn down his house and I didn't order anyone else to do it either."

"Maybe not," conceded Mr. Popkin, "but it was his shiftless employe who was to blame. Since Snuffy was responsible for putting him on my roof, Snuffy's now got to put a roof over me."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you order Snuffy to make good for the destruction of Mr. Popkin's house..

This is how the judge ruled: No! The judge held that smoking a cigarette is not part of an employe's job. Therefore, concluded the judge, liability for an employe's negligent smoking habits cannot be transferred to his employer.

Young men in a hurry seem to be prime candidates for heart attacks, as reported from a study of 3524 men aged 30 to 59. The man who is hard-driving, aggressive, competitive, highly ambitious, living under constant deadline pressures appears more likely to have a coronary attack than the placid, relaxed man. Fire guts McMahon apartment

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Entertainer Ed McMahon turned in the fire alarm too late and was burned out of his Marina Del Rey apartment.

"It totally gutted the place," McMahon said of the blaze Wednesday. "It melted pictures and frames right on the wall."

McMahon, who is Johnny Carson's sidekick on NBC's Tonight Show, ran from a shower when he smelled smoke but pulled the fire alarm just as firemen arrived to fight the blaze.

"At first I thought it was the hair dryer that I was using but then I saw flames jumping at both windows," McMahon said.

Firemen said the fire started in the apartment below McMahon's.

Put A Check
On Your Use of Natural Gas

68
COOL IT

In four simple steps you can help save someone's job this winter by saving natural gas.
The gas shortage will hit industries hard, but here's how you can help soften the blow:

☐ Set your natural gas furnace thermostat at 68 degrees during the day, and lower at night.

☐ Don't heat rooms not in use.

☐ Properly insulate your home, with at least 6 inches in the attic.

☐ Install storm doors and windows. They'll pay for themselves in just a few winters.

Saving gas will save you money. But more importantly, it will save jobs. We estimate that if every home reduced its consumption of natural gas by following the above suggestions, we wouldn't have to curtail the industries at all.

your child will benefit from it for the rest of his life.

The benefits you offer your child when you give him a piano education go far beyond the ability to make music. In the process of learning to play the piano, he'll be learning some other important lessons that will stay with him for a lifetime. He'll be learning how to concentrate on a given task and how to persevere at it. He'll be discovering the satisfaction of self-expression. He'll be developing poise and self-confidence. To make sure your child benefits most from a piano, give him a good one, right from the beginning. He'll appreciate the difference and do better because of it.

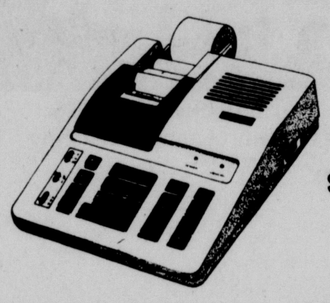
For the price of a good adding machine, you can have the silent electronic calculator with a big plus...

The Sharp Edge



$195.00

Until now, a lot of people have been forced into buying mechanical adding machines when what they really needed was a quality electronic printing calculator.

Well, now you've got it. The new Sharp CS-1151-the latest development of Sharp Qualitronics...built with the same measure of quality and dependability that goes into our largest programmable costing thousands. And yet the CS-1151 comes in at a price that the small businessman can easily afford.

But that's only the beginning. The CS-1151 has features you'd expect to find only on the higher-priced macines..or on Sharp. Features as rugged as Sharp's heavy-duty casing..or as pleasant as the complete silence of the CS-1151 between operations.

All in all, we'e justifiably proud of our new CS-1151. It's worthy of the name it carries..Sharp.

Dexter home burns

DEXTER — Firre destroyed the Jerry Slinkard home, locate north of town in North Hillbrook Subdivision, about noon Wednesday. the only items saved were a few clothes and a rifle.

The Dexter fire department answered the call about 12:12 p.m. after a neighbor, Don Ross, discovered the blaze, but arrived too late to save the building.

Ross said he was driving to work when he saw flames shooting out of a kitchen window, returned home and called the fire department.

A dog house located several feet behind the house near a propane gas tank was destroyed, but the fire did not reach the tank and the dog was unharmed.

Fire Chief Al Banken said the firemen responded as soon as they received the call but, when they arrived at the scene, the entire house was burning.

No injuries were reported, and Banken said the cause of the fire had not been determined.

Cyclist injured

A motorcyclist was injured at 5:20 p.m. Wednesday when he lost control of his cycle and slid on wet pavement.

James William Hill, 49, of 307 Edmondson Drive was treated for scratches and bruises and released at Missouri Delta Community Hospital.

Police said the accident occurred when Kenneth Lee Dement, 42, of 911 Crescent Drive stopped at the corner of North Ranney and East Center streets, then eased his car forward to see around the corner of Liberty Supermarket.

Hill, who was westbound on Center Street, apparently thought Dement was going to pull into his path and braked, then lost control of his motorcycle which slid on the wet pavement.

No arrests were made police said.

Wallet and radios among items stolen

A wallet containing $200 to $300 and two citizens band radios are among items that have been reported stolen, police said today.

Phil Williams, 73, of 333 Compress Road told police that two men knocked on his door about 9 a.m. Wednesday, said they were going to put a pole in his back yard and asked if they could borrow a tape measure.

Williams said he thought the men were from the Sikeston Light & Water Co. and went to the kitchen to get a tape measure for them. While he was gone, the two went out the front door with his wallet which contained $200 to $300.

Bill Chartrand of Red Bud, Ill., reported a citizens band radio taken from his truck between 8 p.m. Tuesday and 9 a.m. Wednesday while it was parked at Rail Haven Motel, 1701 E. Malone Ave.

The radio was valued at $175.

A citizens band radio belonging to William Wayne McCauley, 846 Ruth St., was taken from a car parked at his home between 8 p.m. Wednesday and 5:30 a.m. today. The radio was valued at $175.

Melvin E. Bell of St. Louis told police he left two brief cases setting in the Holiday Inn parking lot and when he returned, the brief cases were

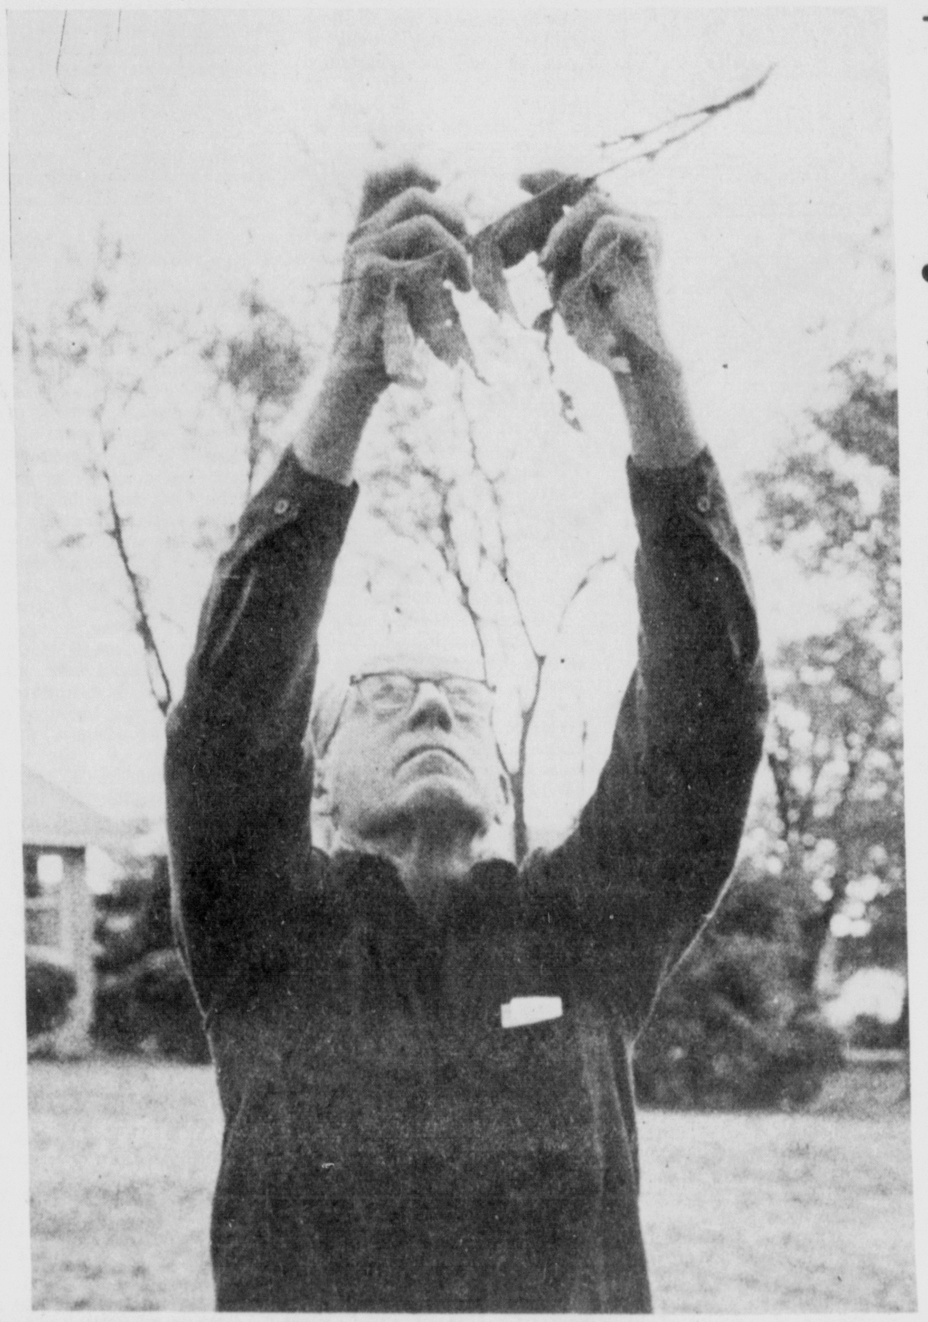
Diamond ring is missing

BLOOMFIELD—Mrs. Pauline Whitener, 15 E. St. Francis Street, Dexter, reported Wednesday that a $1,200 diamond ring was missing, either lost or stolen, the Stoddard County sheriff's department said today.

A report also was received that a bicycle owned by Jimmie Oliver of Essex was stolen Monday from a shed behind his house.



Picking pecans

As winter approaches squirrels are starting to store nuts for the winter. But not so in the back yard of Carl Clayton, 219 Hardin St., who was out early this morning picking pecans from his tree, claiming he wants "to get the nuts before the squirrels do.' A few minutes work netted him several handfuls of nuts. (Daily Standard photo)

October construction tops $316,000 here

Sikeston issued building permits for $316,000 worth of construction in October, according to City Clerk Lynn Lancaster.

Permits issued included:

Leo Brown, storage shed, 846 Matthews Ave., $100; Van Allen Hubbard, garage, 901 Hawthorne Drive, $7,000; C.L. and H.G. Sharp, remodel, 127 W. Center St., $25,000; Garwood Sharp, remodel business, 132 W. Center St., $300.

Presley Grocery, remodel, 401 W. Gladys St., $200; Harold Poole, mobile home, 225 Harry St., $8,000; John W. Davis, cover patio, 604 Taylor St., $750; W.H. Stover, enclose carport, 430 W. Murray Lane, $500; Mike Myers, two-room addition, 907 Arlington Road, $6,000.

Smoke routs prisoners

Prisoners gasp for air moments after being brought out of their cells by police. A fire in a mattress in the men's cellblock forced the evacuation of the police station about 1:55 p.m. Wednesday. Two prisoners required treatment for smoke inhalation. (Daily Standard photo)

Wholesale prices jump in October

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wholesale prices leaped 1.8 per cent in October, the biggest monthly rise in a year, the government reported today. The jump indicated that inflation remains a serious problem.

Price tags on new model cars, lumber and textile products were particularly significant in raising prices last month, but the increases were spread almost across the board, the Labor Department said. Farm prices also were up sharply but still about half the rise in September.

October's increase in the wholesale price index followed gains of six-tenths of a per cent in September and eight-tenths of a per cent in August and was the sharpest rise since October, 1974 when wholesale prices rose 2.9 per cent.

With a new spurt at the wholesale level, consumers can expect a substantial rise in the cost of living in the months ahead as changes in wholesale prices eventually show up in retail stores.

Over the last three months, wholesale prices rose at an annual rate of 13.5 per cent, up from a 6 per cent rate in the May-July quarter. However, the rate was still less than half the 29.6 per cent rate the three months ended last October before the recession slowed inflation.

Wholesale prices last month were 5.1 per cent higher than a year ago. The index moved up to 178.9, meaning it cost $178.90 in October to buy the same goods at wholesale which sold for $100 in the 1967 base period.

In a separate report, the Labor Department said quality changes for the 1976 model American-made passenger cars included in the wholesale price index were valued at an average of $12 at manufacturers prices and about $15.60 at retail. These quality changes accounted for about 8 per cent of the average increase of $198 in manufacturers suggested retail prices.

Farm prices rose 2.2 per cent last month, a sharp rate but still significantly less than the 4.3 per cent increase in September. This put farm prices 5.2 per cent above a year ago.

The sharpest increases in agriculture were for live poultry, leaf tobacco and fluid milk. Prices for fresh and dried vegetables dropped in October, while livestock and plant and animal fibers rose much less than in the previous month.

Rocky says he didn't want party squabble

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller said today he renounced a spot on President Ford's 1976 ticket because "I didn't come down here to get caught up in party squabbles ..."

Rockefeller told a news conference that the political fire he has drawn could only divert the President from his more important duties.

Rockefeller said he has had his differences with Ford, and expects to speak out when there are such differences in the future.

But he said "they were not the basic element" in his decision to withdraw as a prospect for the vice presidency.

Rockefeller said he was becoming the issue for Republican conservatives opposing Ford. He said the only way to take the issue out of the Republican picture was to take himself out of the vice presidential running.

Rockefeller said he came to Washington at Ford's nomination to serve the country and help solve national problems.

"But I didn't come down to get caught up in party squabbles which only make it more difficult for the President in a very difficult time, when the problems of the country require his fullest possible attention," Rockefeller said. "And therefore with his complete understanding and concurrence I wrote him the letter.

With it, Rockefeller withdrew as partner on a Ford ticket.

He said that until he did so, "people didn't believe what I was saying" when he insisted he was not a candidate and was leaving it to the President to pick whatever running mate he wanted.

Rockefeller refused to speculate on what he might do if Ford suffers defeats in the early presidential primaries next year and withdraws as a candidate for the White House.

"This is speculation I have not made," Rockefeller said. He said history indicates that an incumbent President will be renominated. And if he isn't? "I have absolutely no speculations on the subject."

Thus Rockefeller did not rule out the possibility that he might, for a fourth time, wind up in presidential competition next year.

The news conference, in the Executive Office Building across the street from the White House, was Rockefeller's first public statement since his Monday announcement that he doesn't want to be considered for the ticket.

Speedster gets quick justice

BENTON — Swift justice followed the arrest Tuesday of Brad Allen Willier, 17, of Oconomowoc, Wisc. who was sentenced to 18 months in jail within two hours after a high speed chase in Scott County that extended into the city of Cape Girardeau and ended in Capaha Park.

Willier pleaded guilty before Magistrate Judge Lloyd Briggs to careless and imprudent driving, failure to stop for a red light and a siren and speeding.

He was sentenced to six months in Scott county jail on each count with the terms to run consecutively.

The chase covering between 15 and 20 miles, began south of the Benton overpass on Interstate 55 at 8:35 a.m. and concluded 12 minutes later at 8:47 a.m.

Highway Patrolman Robert P. Eddleman of Sikeston, who was headed south, clocked Willier with a speedgun going north at 80 m.p.h. Trooper Eddleman crossed the median and gave chase.

Driving at speeds near 120 miles perhour, the chase headed north with Trooper Eddleman radioing for assistance.

Dodging traffic, ignoring traffic lights, with patrol cars close behind, the chase covered several Cape Girardeau streets.

Pedestrians stood agape as they watched the chase proceed. Motorists quickly gave way as they heard the sirens and saw the speeding cars during one of the peak traffic periods of the day.

Coming up on the roadblock near the intersection of Perry avenue and Broadway, the youth spotted the officers. He either lost control or deliberately cut across the curb, knocking down a traffic sign, and drove onto the grass into the park.

Officers involved in the chase said it was one of the most dangerous they had participated in.

The only reason Willier gave for the episode was that he "was having trouble at home."

Motorist seriously hurt

A Lowndes man was seriously injured Wednesday and two Steele women received minor injuries in traffic accidents on area roads,the highway patrol reported today.

In a one-vehicle accident at 3 p.m. on Route E, one mile East of Lowndes in Wayne County, Hubert H. Deckard, 44, of Lowndes was seriously injured when his westbound pickup ran off the road and struck a tree.

He was taken to Veterans Administration Hospital in Poplar Bluff.

Allene Herring, 33, driver of a southbound car, and a passenger, Brenda Kay Thompson, 17, both of Steele, received minor injuries in a pickup-car collision at 1 p.m. Wednesday on Highway 61, one mile north of Holland in Pemiscot County.

The highway patrol said the collision occurred when the Herring car pulled from a county road into the path of a northbound pickup driven by Thomas Lee Wandell, 19, of Steele.

The women were treated at Pemiscot County Memorial Medical Center in Hayti.

Court says no to Cape

BENTON — The Scott County Court this morning rejected the city of Cape Girardeau's request for permission to do extra territorial planning and zoning in Scott County.

The Scott County Court said it will not allow its county to be divided into two planning zones. The judges said they do not know the future policy of Cape Girardeau in Scott County, therefore, by letting Cape Girardeau exercise the proposed zoning law in Scott County could mean a future land grab.

The land and people are in Scott County and until the state changes the constitution on planning and zoning, Scott County will govern that portion, the court said.

Melvin Glueck, judge of the second district, said "We will do our own planning and zoning".

Judge Eldon Ziegenhorn of the first district said "The Scott County planning and zoning will be better than Cape Girardeau's because we know what our peoples' needs are."

Fire at local jail forces evacuation

A fire in a mattress in a jail cell forced evacuation of the Sikeston police station Wednesday afternoon.

Two prisoners have been charged with arson, and one of them, along with another prisoner, was taken to Missouri Delta Community Hospital for treatment of smoke inhalation.

The fire broke out about 1:55 p.m. in the men's cellblock. The fire sent a thick cloud of smoke into the building and forced evacuation of the station.

Five prisoners were in the cell block when the fire broke out. Troy Cureton, 29, of Bell City Route One and James Merriman, Route Four, were taken to Missouri Delta Community Hospital for treatment of smoke inhalation.

Curteon and his brother Wilford Cureton, 22, of Route Four, are being charged with arson, police said.

Both men had been in their cell about an hour when the fire started. Troy Cureton had been arrested for driving while intoxicated, driving without a license and leaving the scene of an accident. Wilford Cureton was charged with public intoxication.

Police officers, wearing gas masks, continued to answer the telephone and dispatch cars while firemen fought the fire and cleared the smoke from the building.

Firemen were at the station for an hour, but it took about another hour for the smoke to be cleared from the cellblock.

The only fire damage was to the mattress, according to Police Chief Leon Culp. He said some of the other mattresses may have to be replaced.

Culp said the department has had prisoners set fire to their mattresses before, but none had produced the volume of smoke this fire did.

BARTER — EAST GERMAN STYLE

Every once in a while interesting revelations occur concerning the human side of East-West relations. This time it is news of the actual purchase by West Germans of prisoners held by East Germany.

The practice has evidently been going on for a long time, ever since the infamous Berlin Wall was erected by the East Germans to prevent the continued flight of much of their population to the West. The east Germans are not, however, above letting these people go for a price. The Bonn government has been paying that price, for sums estimated to range as high as $15,000 per prisoner.

The interesting thing, also, is that the practice is still going on now in about the same way as in the worst days of the cold war. Nothing much has changed as a result of the so-called detente, according to a recent article in the New York Times. It quoted Western sources as saying that since 1969 $80 million had been paid out for 5,000 prisoners. Other reports claimed 2,000 alone had been bartered for in the last year. Many of those ransomed are doctors, for whom the rates are especially high. These physicians have apparently been imprisoned for up to three and one-half years for a crime that is called "flight from the republic," which, we assume, means they simply wanted out.

If money is what it takes to free these unfortunates, then we cannot blame the West Germans for spending their money in such a humanitarian cause. The practice does have its advantages in this case, since it reassures the East Germans that they are not forgotten by their West German compatriots. And once more it helps to illuminate the true face of communism. It is another reminder of why the communists had to build that wall in the first place.

A federal court has ruled that racial discrimination is not a crime if practiced against whites. That is the import of a decision handed down by Judge Thomas D. Lambros of the U.S. District Court for Northern Ohio. Lambros recently dismissed a suit brought by a white postal worker who claimed that he had been denied a job in favor of a less qualified black who was promoted solely for reasons of race. The judge claimed that while it "no doubt seems unjust to the plaintiff," white persons may not file claims of racial discrimination under Title VII of the Civil Rights Act. Officials of the Civil Rights Commission were outraged by the decision and are urging the government to support an appeal.

CAMELOT DESTROYED

Liberated womanhood possesses a surprising twist which its feminist leaders may not have anticipated--for as their roles expand in society, it is predicted that more women will subsequently go to prison.

A definite trend toward equal penalties for equal crimes, with more and longer jail sentences for women resulting, is noted by Mrs. Carolyn A. Handy, a staff worker in the Women's Rights Program of the U.S. Commission on Civil Rights.

Apparently the days of Camelot and damsels in distress are past. Now that the "fairer sex" is also sallying forth in search of their quota of dragons, they must suffer the full consequences, without expecting favoritism, should they run afoul of the lord of the manor.

CAMPAIGN SPENDING LAW CRAMPS GOPs

The political pundits are still mulling over the meaning of New Hampshire's senatorial run-off election in which Democrat John A. Durkin defeated Republican Louis C. Wyman.

As New Hampshire went, not necessarily will the nation go in 1976, of course. But the immediate consensus is that the defeat is a bad omen for the GOP in next year's presidential and congressional races.

The New Hampshire election was more than the first electoral test of the Ford administration, however. It was also the first test of the new federal campaign spending law, and in this respect numerous observers see portents of trouble for the GOP that go far beyond apparent popular dissatisfaction with the President's inability to turn the economy around.

The election dramatically demonstrated the powerful political leverage the new law has given to organized labor, they say. While Durkin, the winner, actually spent about $25,000 less of the over-all campaign ceiling of $220,000 than did Wyman, the loser, he was able to target his spending more effectively because thousands of dollars worth of support contributed by unions was not counted.

For example, union agents working for the Democratic candidate telephoned each of the 45,000 union households in the state several times, mailed literature under cheap bulk rates allowed for nonprofit organizations, distributed absentee ballots and worked house-to-house in some districts on election day.

In addition, the New Hampshire State Labor Council mailed pro-Durkin letters to 47,000 AFL-CIO members, and the heads of several other unions also sent out literature.

Under the campaign spending "reform" law, none of these or other union political activities had to be applied to Durkin's spending limitation because such "in kind" aid is merely the expression of the unions' right to communicate with their members.

According to William Baltaks, regional director for the Republican National Committee, the failure to include "in kind" union contributions in the campaign spending law is going to be "a big problem" for the Republicans.

And it is hardly as if the party did not have enough problems already.

KINDRED SOULS

No segment of American business, industry or consumer-oriented interests should accept, with complacency, the proposition of government-run enterprise in any line of endeavor. America's railroads are an excellent case in point.

It is well to remember that a government-run business operated by different rules than a taxpaying, private business. Deficits are the taxpayer's headache, not management's, in a government business. A private enterprise industry is under constant compulsion to satisfy customers. One private enterprise industry can understand the problems of other similar industries, thus U.S. railroads, as investor- owned taxpaying operations, are keenly aware of the requirements of shippers. A release of the Association of American Railroads illustrates this. It says, "Time is money. And today's railroads are proving the truth of that maxim by saving both time and money--for themselves and their customers--with an operation called the 'run-through'freight train." The run-through "super freights" provide express service from origin to destination, pausing only for such things as crew changes, safety inspections and an occasional quick pickup--or delivery--of pre-blocked sections of cars. In some cases, these run-through trains utilize shortcut tracks to get them around congested areas and keep them rolling. As the Association release states, "This kind of expedited treatment enables the new trains to cut as much as two full days from schedules between Atlantic and Pacific coasts and between other parts of the country."

Why do the railroads undertake efforts such as run-through trains? The answer is simple. As private enterprises, they must meet the needs and demands of kindred enterprises in a thousand fields. Government commercial operations are bound by no such unity of purpose or sense of obligation. The time has come when everyone should think deeply on these fundamental implications of government operation of business enterprise.

THE RETURN OF KING RICHARD

The United States has no royal class. The Constitution, indeed, forbids the granting of titles of nobility.

As a consequence of this prejudice of the Founding Fathers, we are forced to make do as best we can by conferring unofficial royalty on movie stars and other celebrities, on at least one president's widow and now, it would seem, on at least one ex-president.

In a recent issue, Newsweek magazine ran a lengthy cover story on the return of Richard Nixon to the public eye after more than a year of self-imposed exile. We can expect more of the same in the future—how he fills his days, how his health is, how his memoris are coming along, etc.

With the Nixons in retirement, the U.S. may have its equivalent of the Duke and Duchess of Windsor, two likeable people who led essentially useless lives except they provided regular copy for those interested in their doings.

Like the ex-king, the ex-president is a man fallen from a high pinnacle and hence a semitragic and, no doubt to some, a romantic figure. And although like the abdicated king, the abdicated president has no chance of ever regaining a position of power or influence in his country's affairs, he will always be news. The only difference is that he has no title.

COMMUNITY BUILDERS BY NATURE

As local problems pile upon citizens and hometown businesses at an alarming rate, it becomes clear that the retailing industry is best suited to shoulder the responsibility of resolving such problems. In the words of the head of one large retailing firm operating stores in many cities, "The sheer volume of new programs and new regulations places a high premium on local initiative, local priorities, and local teamwork. Only these will insure that the job gets done. As we're caught up in national and international trends far beyond our reach, it's all the more essential that we feel capable of influencing our own future at the local level. As mistrust of big government grows, it's critical that the smaller governments of our local communities work even better."

This retailing firm has helped provide leadership in a campaign to improve local mass transit in Cincinnati where "...it was clear that the city's privately owned transit system was becoming a terminal case." An official of the company was a prime mover in getting the citizens to vote approval of a bond issue to support improved transit. The company is now studying what can be done in all the cities where it has stores. It is doing so out of necessity because, "Retailing can prosper only if our communities have sound transportation systems....Unlike some other businesses, we can't move....Our present and our future are tied to the streets where we live and the streets where we have built our businesses."

The comments of the retail executive are timely. They illustrate the constructive force of common interest and the vast reservoir of resourcefulness which competitive private enterprise can bring to bear on solving many of the seemingly unanswerable problems of our times.

LEAVE IT TO THE OSTRICH

Some people still refuse to face the reality of the petroleum shortage. They find the allegation that oil companies are conspiring to hold out gasoline supplies to boost prices and get other advantages more comforting to their sense of security. Unfortunately, there is a critical shortage, and no spigot can be turned on overnight when "the price is right."

As to the conspiracy fairy tale, an oil company article points out that some 60 federal agencies and bureaus, numerous congressional committees and local agencies which govern industry activities are "...more than sufficient reason to question the credibility of the conspiracy theory." In connection with the problems of supply that independent marketers are having, the situation should be obvious. There is less gasoline available than the people of the United States are accustomed to using. our traditional surplus of gasoline, which independents bought from any company that had gasoline to sell is unavailable due to deficiency in supply. As for the monopoly charge--let the facts speak. Competition is still strong in the industry. It takes 25 of the largest oil companies to account for 66 per cent of the nation's crude oil and natural gas liquids production and 78 percent of the total gasoline market.

Any serious, objective survey of the energy shortage brings the conclusion that hiding one's head in the sand to escape danger better be left to the ostrich. A coordinated national energy policy based on the realities of the petroleum supply situation is imperative. We must develop domestic sources of energy that will free the U.S. from critical dependence on foreign powers. There is no other way.

Art Buchwald

WASHINGTON--There has been criticism in Washington lately over defense contractors entertaining Pentagon officials at hunting lodges and other places of ill repute. Former Secretary of Defense Schlesinger in referring to Northrop's entertainment policies said, "We have seen only the tip of the iceberg."

The latest word is that one aircraft firm even hired (ital) girls (unital) to accompany the guests on their trips into the woods.

I have a lobbyist friend from an aerospace company who thinks the hunting-lodge scandal is overkill.

Milbank told me, "All we were trying to do was give our senior fighting men some rest and recreation and now they're trying to hang us for it."

"What you say is probably true," I told him, "but you'll have to admit it doesn't look good in the papers that your company was flying high-ranking officers off to shoot pheasant, duck and what have you, while you were trying to sell them rockets and airplanes."

"Do you think a hunting weekend is going to influence a general into buying a certain kind of rocket or airplane? We never even talked about rockets or planes. We never talked about business at all."

"What did you talk about?"

"We talked about our wives and how much we all missed them."

"War is hell," I said. "But I read in the newspapers that you not only provided hunting facilities for Pentagon officials and key staff members of the Armed Services Committee but also female companionship."

"Someone had to do the cooking and the cleaning," he said defensively.

"I'm not doubting your word, but there are some Americans who think you were up to no good."

"Give me their names," Milbank said, "and I'll see that they're fed into a Pentagon computer."

"That's not the point," I replied. "The one thing this country has always prided itself in is the absolute separation of the military from the industrial complexes. Even something as innocent as a hunting weekend with call girls is enough to put this independence into jeopardy."

Milbank said, "Look at it this way. The enlisted men have the USO. The junior officers have the officers' clubs. But where can a general go to have fun? Where can he relax and forget the burdens and cares of leadership? By maintaining hunting lodges we were doing the same thing for generals that Bob Hope was doing for privates. We were building morale."

"Tell me the truth, Milbank. After one of those weekends, have you ever got an order from the Pentagon?"

"Never. Well, almost never. Once I was out shooting with an Air Force general and he got a rabbit with a shotgun I had loaned him. He said, 'This is a helluva gun,' and I said, 'If you think that's a gun, you ought to see one of our AK 450 Red Line Missiles.' He didn't believe me so I set one up and launched it. Sure enough, we wasted a rabbit 30 miles away. That impressed him so much he called me Monday and ordered 4,000 of them. If my general hadn't gone hunting that weekend, this country would have been deprived of one of the finest weapons in its arsenal."

"I would like to have seen that scene on 'The Guns of Autumn.' " I said.

"Well, I guess with all the adverse publicity we're going to have to shut down the hunting lodge for a while," Milbank said.

"What will you do instead?"

"We bought a massage parlor near Alexandria. I'd like to see the Defense Department make something out of that!"

KKK Rides Again: Meany Charges Ku Klux Klan And Nazis Whip Up Anti-Busing Demonstrators

WASHINGTON - In characteristic style, labor's chief of chiefs George Meany has clobbered anti-school busing unionists who claim support of their local and state organizations -- especially in Kentucky and particularly in Louisvbille. Meany has just written to labor leaders there to cool it; and to get out of the series of anti-busing demonstrations.

So there'd be no doubt where he stood, he added that he believed the demonstrators' emotions were being whipped up by "the Ku Klaux Klan and the American Nazi Party."

There's no doubt the KKK is deep into the constant, politically significant anti-busing protest in Louisville, right up to the tip of its white hoods. And there's no doubt that some Klansmen hope to whip this into an alliance with the "Boston crowd."

All this has irritated Meany and his colleagues. But what makes this series of angry demonstrations different from others in the North, especially from the bloody and riotous Boston anti- busing street action, is the fact that labor unions -- not just the rank and file -- have gotten into the act.

And when aroused, Meany always proceeds to Act Two.

He warned the leaders of the Kentucky AFL-CIO state federation and the Louisville Central Labor Council against lending "any aid or support whatever to those who seek to ignore or to pervert" the AFL-CIO's "wholehearted support of busing of children when it will improve the educational opportunities of the children."

He advised that the AFL-CIO will "oppose the constitutional amendment approach (to end busing -- VR) because it will do a disservice to the quality integrated education which we support."

Meany pointed out in a series of letters to Kentucky labor officials he wanted more than mere neutrality or abstention on their part. Overwhelmingly, the Kentucky labor leaders lost a move at the recent AFL-CIO national convention to force the massive federation to reverse itself on its traditional pro-busing posture. And as far as Meany is concerned, that's that.

"You and the other officers of the Kentucky AFL-CIO have the clear responsibility to implement the policy of the AFL-CIO to the very best of your ability," he wrote.

Speaking for the federation, Meany added: "While individual union members certainly have every right to exercise their constitutional privileges of free speech, they have no right whatever to claim or imply that their actions represent the policy of the AFL-CIO , the Kentucky state AFL-CIO, the Louisville Central Labor Council or any other AFL-CIO organization."

The other day Meany did a double bite on his cigar when he heard that the Kentucky protests were being organized by an anti-busing "Louisville coalition of labor unions."

Last Friday (Oct. 24) they loaded some 41 chartered buses and 90 autos with Louisville anti-busing demostrators and hauled some 3,000 to Washington for a Saturday protest march. This cost upward of $62,000. With them came placards claiming support from the local International Union of Electrical Workers (whose national president Paul Jennings is a veteran philosophical socialist); Carpenters Local 2174; Pipefitters Local 522 as well as machinists and tobacco workers. And some teamsters and auto workers.

So he wouldn't be misunderstood in the slightest, Meany also wrote: "'In short, it is the duty of the Kentucky state AFL-CIO and all local central bodies to implement the policy of the AFL-CIO, stated above, to make sure that Kentucky union members are not misled by demagogues and that they understand and respect the law." And that's his mandate for all labor bodies across the land.

Thus far there's been no reaction. But neither has there been any abatement of the furious anti-busing street action and political organization.

This story had a double thrust. Naturally anti -busing sentiment is strongest in the factory- jammed industrial and urban centers -- the steel areas leading into Pittsburgh, the Detroit auto factory complex, Boston, etc. These are the guts of the American labor movement.

Millions of parents in these megalopolises just don't want busing-period. But it is official AFL-CIO policy to back busing as Meany has laid it on the line. There'll be a clash, to predict the least.

Further, the Wizards, Kludds and other competing Klan leaders see their chance to organize, as once they did, inside "the working class" (now very much middle). Thus you find Klaverns in Detroit, Indiana and even New York.Recently the new "Grand Dragon of the Texas Fiery Knights of the KKK" actually flow into Charleston, W. V.., to declare himself a candidate against the incumbent Arnold Miller for the United Mine Workers presidency.

There isn't much chance of the Klan pulling its white robe over the House of Labor. But turbulence there will be.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Jack Anderson

JACK ANDERSON SAYS:
A Call to America
with
LES WHITTEN

WASHINGTON — For the first time since pollsters started asking, most Americans are pessimistic about the future.

No longer, say the pollsters, do we believe our country is moving ahead. No longer are we sure that tomorrow will be better than today. Our leaders, caught in past lies, are no longer believed. Our major institutions -- government, business, the press and the professions -- are held in low regard.

This is an alarming development. For two centuries, the buoyancy of America has been our distinguishing national stamp, the key impression made on foreign visitors from deTocqueville to Solzhenitsyn.

Confidence is what has made us tick. If a vast, tumultuous democracy like ours is to work, there must be a fundamental optimism in the land, an undergirding belief in the nation's purpose and direction.

Our leaders must be sustained by a shared vision of the future if they are to steer boldly at the helm. If only 30 per cent of the people bother to vote and the rest feel it makes no difference who wins, the victor has no mandate. He cannot lead because he has no followers; he can only engate in manipulations.

It would be strange, of course, if the long downpour of badnews had not dampened American spirits. We have much to be sober about -- our first war lost; a President deposed in disgrace; his principal aides proved felons; our natural resources running out; our public guardians caught in the shabbiest kinds of harassment directed against our own people; public debts piling up until "government bankruptcy" is no longer a metaphor but a reality; and an economy caught in the intractable vise of both inflation and recession.

In many countries, the public spirit is so deadened that such a series of calamities are accepted as the norm. In others, social order is so fragile that these events would have led to fighting in the streets and to the unraveling of society.

That neither has happened here is a sign of strength. We are so accustomed to success, progress and reasonably honest government as to be stunned by their opposites. We are still confident enough in our institutions to seek redress through lawful processes -- impeachments, hearings, legislation, elections -- and not through violence.

If there is a tremporary exhaustion of the national spirit, as the polls indicate, it is time to shake ourselves out of our melancholy.

During the first of the great wars of survival between Rome and Carthage, there came a time when the spirit of the Roman republic seemed almost extinguished.

During two decades of war, Rome repeatedly had built and sent out fleets against Carthage, the lord of the seas. Victories were won by Rome but nullified by Mediterranean storms which destroyed the fleets.

In the 23rd year of the war, with the economy of Rome almost destroyed and despondency felt in almost every Roman home, the government fell into listlessness and declined to rebuild the fleet on which survival depended.

Then out of the gloom, private citizens came forward. Through voluntary donations, they raised the money to build and man yet another great fleet, which was presented to the state as a gift from the people. It went forth and won the victory that won the war.

We are not at war. The adversary that threatens our cohesion is not always visible. But it is nonetheless a time for individuals to make their gifts to a beleaguered society, not in ships but in other ways -- in sacrifices to reduce needless energy consumption; in increased personal productivity; in time given to citizen efforts to guide youth and fight crime; in warnings to backsliding Congressmen that a retreat from campaign reform will not be tolerated; in willingness to accept the public and private austerities the times require.

Above all, we must offer the gift of the spirit that continues to dream the dream of 200 years. We have overwhelming evidence that the spirit is still alive.

We asked people to tell us their feeling s about the country as we approached the bicentennial in a time of great distress and to reduce their sentiments, if possible, to bicentennial slogans. More than a million slogans have come in.

No one could wade through this putpouring without being optimistic about the long-term health of the American spirit. What comes across is how thin are the ranks of both the mockers and chauvinists among us, how deeply and thoughtfully the great mass of Americans are committed to the idea that our country represents something vitally important to the world.

People describe this "somehing," of course, in different ways -- a freer life, a more equal start, a better chance, a fairer trial, a stronger body of personal rights -- goals never realized but never abandoned, goals achieved more fully here than any place else on eartth.

Foootnote: There is still time, incidentally, for you to submit your slogans. One will become the official bicentennial slogan. Send your entries to Slogans USA, Box 1976, Washington D.C. The deadline is December 1. The finalists will be annouced at the Superbowl game on January 18. Then the public will be invited to vote for the slogan they like best. This has the endorsement of the American Revolution Bicentennial Administration.

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — Princess Margaret of Britain has arrived here for a four-day visit at the invitation of friends, the British Embassy said.

The princess, who has just concluded an official visit to Australia, will tour Caracas and other Venezuelan cities before returning to London on Monday.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Singer Diana Ross, who currently is starring in the movie "Mahogany," has given birth to her third child.

The 7-pound, 13-ounce girl was born Wednesday at Cedars of Lebanon Hospital and was named Chudney. Miss Ross and her husband, Robert Silberstein, have two other daughters, 4 and 3.

Miss Ross was once the lead singer with the Supremes, but she left the Motown group several years ago to launch her career as a soloist.

Scott County lists funds disbursement

The Scott County Division of Family Services office disbursed funds totaling $192,553 in October, with the greatest part being paid to the aid to dependent children program.

A total of 1130 families with 2709 children received a total of $143,613 in the aid to dependent children category, averaging $127.09 per family.

Breman L. Montgomery, county director, reports 934 persons received a total of $38,685 in state supplemental payments and are on the combined payroll of state supplemental income and the federal program supplemental security income. This group previously received old age assistance, permanent and total disability or aid to the blind assistance.

Twenty persons received a total of $3,888 in nursing care supplement payments during October.

General relief funds of $6247 went to 98 familes, consisting of 107 persons, with each family check averaging $63.74.

One person received a $120 blind pension.

Child welfare services were provided for 119 children, and 230 children were given preventive services. A total of $3,325.62 expended from the County Court payroll and aid to dependent children-foster care payroll was for 37 children in foster care.

Forty-four adults obtained services during October, with 31 adults receiving protective services and 13 receiving preventive services.

Scott City issue on trash pending

SCOTT CITY — The City Council Monday night, voting with five aldermen present, failed to settle a four-month controversy over mandatory trash pickup in the city.

Four councilmen voted in favor of entering into an agreement with Jack Holder to provide front curb pickup of solid waste, while one councilman abstained.

That vote, however, was not sufficient to put the trash ordinance into effect, said City Attorney Tom Arnold. In searching Missouri statutes, Arnold said he could find no clear declarations on voting except on passing an ordinance, which must have five yes votes out of a board of eight members.

Both Holder and Arlie Jackson on July 8 bid $3 for trash hauling, but at another council meeting on Aug. 8, Holder bid $3 per month for front curb service and $5 per month for alley pickup. At the same time Jackson bid $3.50 for front curb service, but did not submit a bid for alley pickup.

Prior to the hauling controversy, and until the issue is decided, both men have continued to operate their hauling concerns on an independent basis to those subscribers who desire it.

At the August council meeting, Holder's bid was accepted, but Jackson represented by Timothy F. Ruddy, a Cape Girardeau attorney, posed a legal question about whether or not haulers could do their own fee collecting. Since that time, however, another state law has given haulers the right to do their own fee collecting.

More discussion on the matter will follow, the council decided, but alderman Wes Holdcroft asked which bid would be cheapest if the majority of city residents had rear, rather than front pickup. Arnold told him that because Mr. Jackson had not bid on alley pickup, he should not even be considered in the running.

It was announed the council plans several public hearings before Dec. 15 to obtain citizens' views on the city's sewer system and the possibility of a new community building. There is a possibility federal funds may be secured for the projects.

In other business,the council set Nov. 25 as date for election of Ward 3 alderman to fill the unexpired term of the late Marvin Arnold. Fillng deadline is 5 p.m. Nov. 21.

A study of two sets of bids on drag line work on the ditch from Rose-Con Co. to the mobile home park will be conducted.

A bid from Girardeau Contractors for paving 706 feet of street in Cloverdale at a cost of $2,965.20 was opened.

The council appointed Mrs. Linda Davis and Mrs. Grace Ford to the planning and zoning commission. Mayor Cauble said anyone interested in serving on that body or on the board of adjustments should contact him.

Parma school offers GED course

PARMA — The Parma Community Service Administration is enrolling students for an adult general education development (GED) course to be taught at Parma High School.

The 26-week course is for adults, age 18 and older, and who have not completed high school, and will provide instruction and training to enable them to pass the state GED test and receive a high school equivalency dipolma.

The course will be free to those who qualify within the Community Service Administration income guidelines.

Enrollment has been set for Nov. 17, from 6:30 through 7:30 p.m. in the Area Opportunity Center located in Parma Community Building.

Persons interested in the course should contact the center at telephone number 357-4777.

Mrs. Sadat speaks at college

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — The 150 million people of the Arab world never harbored ill feelings toward Americans, even during periods of misunderstanding, says Mrs. Anwar Sadat.

The wife of Egypt's president, who was in Florida the past four days, told a crowd of 300 at Jacksonville University Tuesday night that "our people stand ready and hopeful, as they have always been, extending the hand of friendship, looking forward to the best of relations with the people and government of the United States of America."

Mrs. Sadat expressed hope that the visit by her husband, herself and their four children will help establish peace and stability through the world.

Program reduces mental retardation

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — A health care program designed to reduce the frequency of mental retardation in children has finally been implemented in Missouri after nearly 18 months' delay.

State Health Division Director Dr. Herbert Domke announced Tuesday that 20 hospitals will offer the special medical treatment program for pregnant women who have complicating conditions which could lead to premature births and mental retardation. Seven hospitals will offer specialized newborn care under the program.

The General Assembly approved the plan in 1974, but Gov. Christopher S. Bond declined to permit the Health Division to issue mandatory regulations for the program while legislative review of the rules was required by the legislature.

The executive offie and the legislature have been at odds in recent years over the issuance of rules by agencies. Some lawmakers have felt the legislature should have the authority to review agency rules and possibly repeal them.

Implementation of the maternal and child care program was permitted when the legislature amended the law this year to removed the requirement that any rules must be issued.

Twenty-two other hospitals have been invted to offer the program, but have not replied,, Domke said. The legislature appropriated $536,000 for the plan this year.

Dr. Ned Smull, chairman of the High Risk Pediatric Patient Advisory Committee for the plan, said it would provide prenatal care to high risk mothers, "increasing the chances that they will have normal healthy babies and their infants, if sick, will receive special postnatal care in leading hospitals with a fully equipped and staffed intensive care unit."

Ann Landers

Angry bachelors dispute happy marriage statistics

Dear Ann Landers: I must say you lie with statistics most convincingly. I refer to your answer on the relative happiness of married men as compared with bachelors. Of course bachelors are 22 more time likely to be in prison. Who wants to marry a felon?

Did it ever occur to you that the chronically ill, the alcoholics and the criminals might be unmarried for just those reasons and not vice versa?

I, for one, resent the implication that without a wife I will immediately fall into a life of crime, drink and an early grave.

How about some fair comparisons of married and unmarried 25-year-old white-collar workers and 30-year-old professional men? Obviously if you lump all the world's unfortunates with the bachelors-by-choice, you're going to come up with a sorry looking lot. (And P.S. How about the financial advantages of not having to support a wife?) -- A Happy Batch

Dear Batch: My mailman must have a hernia from dragging letters written by "Happy Bachlors" – highly indignant at the statistics quoted in this column recently.

Sorry if I offended so many of you, but those are official government figures. I didn't pull them out of my ear.

They did not state that all single men are alcoholics, criminals, in poor health and destined to die young. Nor did they suggest that all married men are healthy, happy, dry an law-abiding. Those figures reflected the overall picture to which there are undoubtedly millions of exceptions -- on both sides. So, please get off my back, fellas.

P.S. Many bachelors spend a lot more money on their girlfriends than some husbands spend on their wives.

Dear Ann Landers: More and more people are recognizing that males have the menopause, same as women. But doctors and psychiatrists discuss it only in terms of psychological manifestations. Feelings of disappointment, guilt, depression, loss of hope for achievement and a diminishing interest in sex. The assumption seems to be that the physical symptoms are confined to women.

Maybe I'm some sort of nuts but I get the darnedest hot flashes and they drive me crazy. I'm 57, in good health, normal blood pressure, EKG, blood and urinalysis fine. There seems to be no reason for these miserable occurrences.

Maybe they aren't hot flashes in the technical sense, but if they aren't, I'd like to know what in the Sam Hill they are. While they don't last very long, when they occur I feel as if I'm in a blast furnace. Any suggestions, Ann? -- Hot And Bothered

Dear H and B: If you haven't discussed this with a doctor, you should. And if it's any comfort to you, fella, yours is a common complaint, although not many men talk about it. (P.S. Carry a fan. It can be a big help.)

CONFIDENTIAL to Need A Helping Hand: Have you looked at the bottom of your sleeve? I recommend it.

Confused about what's right and what's wrong in today's "new morality"? You're not alone. If you want honest, down-to-earth information on your sex questions, read Ann Landers's new booklet, "High School Sex And How To Deal With It – A Guide For Teens And Their Parents." Send 50 cents in coin plus a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P. O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120.

Harvest foods... persimmons

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press
Food Editor

A report from USDA reminds us that from fall through the first of the new year persimmons are with us and that there are two main kinds from which to choose. The Oriental persimmon is grown commercially, mostly in California. The native wild persimmon flourishes from Connecticut southward to Florida and westward to Texas and Kansas.

From our own research we'd say that one of the oldest and most interesting American regional dishes made with the persimmon is a pudding, worthy of including in a roster of Bicentennial recipes. Cooks in various "pockets" of the United States have their favorite ways of preparing this dessert.

One especially delicious way seems to be indigenous to the middle region of North Carolina. Cooks there often add sweet potato to their persimmon puddings. In Clayton, N.D., a town a dozen miles or so from Raleigh, Mrs. Louie Allen—known locally for her fine cooking—has devised one of the best of these recipes.

Mrs. Allen, an active septuagenarian, still climbs a neighbor's cultivated wild persimmon tree to capture the fruit not felled by frost!

MRS. LOUIE ALLEN'S PERSIMMON PUDDING

2 to 2½ cups flour (fork stir to aerate before measuring), see below
½ tsp. baking soda
½ tsp. salt
1 tsp. cinnamon
1 tsp. nutmeg
2 cups pulp from commercially grown or wild persimmons, see below
3 eggs
¾ cup granulated sugar
¾ cup firmly packed light brown sugar
3 Tbsp. butter or margarine, melted
1 ½ cups milk
1 ½ cups loosely packed coarsely grated sweet potato
1 cup loosely packed fresh grated or canned flaked coconut

On wax paper thoroughly stir together the flour, baking soda, salt, cinnamon and nutmeg. In a large mixing bowl beat together until blended the persimmon pulp, eggs, sugars and butter. Add flour mixture and milk and beat until blended. Stir in sweet potato and coconut. Turn into a buttered oblong glass baking dish (about 13 by 9 by 2 inches) or similar utensil. Bake in a preheated 325-degree oven until a knife inserted in center comes out clean—about one hour. Serve warm (or reheat) with or without whipped cream.

Flour: If using pulp from commercially grown persimmons, add the largest amount of flour given above; if using pulp from wild persimmons you may need to decrease the flour because they may be less juicy.

Persimmon pulp: In preparing it, use soft persimmons, letting them stand at room temperature for several days if necessary to soften. Rinse; remove stems; cut in half and remove seeds. (The number of seeds seems to vary in commercially grown persimmons. Wild persimmons, we are told, have clusters of five or six seeds and these may be difficult but not impossible to remove.) Puree persimmons through a food mill, discarding the skins.

walnuts

PRALINED WALNUTS

¼ tsp. walt
¼ tsp. cinnamon
¼ tsp. nutmeg
2 cups walnuts
1 cup sugar
One- third cup water
¼ cup light corn syrup

In a small mixing bowl stir together the salt, cinnamon and nutmeg; add walnuts and toss together well. In a heavy two quart saucepan stir together the sugar, water and corn syrup; cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until sugar is dissolved and mixture comes to a boil. Continue boiling, stirring occasionally, until temperature reaches 235 degrees on a candy thermometer or until a teaspoon of the mixture dropped into a cup of very cold water forms a soft ball that flattens on removal from the water-about 5 or 6 minutes.

Remove from heat and add the walnut mixture; stir until syrup mixture begins to thicken and look opague. Pour in a spreading motion onto a well-buttered cookie sheet; at once, using two forks, separate nuts into small clusters. Cool completely and store in a tightly closed plastic bag in a tightly covered tin box. Makes about one pound.

Note: Large broken pieces of walnuts with some halves, just as they come from a one-pound see-through bag, are fine to use in this recipe.

Girl Scouts to sell cookies Tuesday

The 1975 Girl Scout cookie sale will begin Tuesday and last until Nov. 21. The products ordered during this time will be delivered sometime between Jan. 30 and Feb. 6.

A new product this year will be tea. The girls will still have the six varieties of cookies.

All profit from these sales is shared with each girl's troop and used to supprt Camp Latonka at Lake Wappapello. This year they hope to be able to build a new infirmary and small troop winter cabin.

The Cotton Boll Council is very pleased to have one of the lowest camping fees of $35 per session of any camp and that the girl scout troops are able to use the camp all winter at no cost.

Cookie sales this year will help the girl, area camp, and the community.

Household hints

Pomegranates are in season and pomegranate juice is delicious to drink. In preparing it, stay away from a metal juicer because it may discolor the juice.

Heritage House event calendar

Next Wednesday and Thursday, the Heritage House will sponsor a blood pressure clinic from 9:30 a.m. to 11:30 a.m.

Also on Wednesday, the Retired Teachers Association will meet at 10 a.m. and the Full Gospel Business Men's Fellowship will meet at 7:30 p.m., Saturday.

Evening out will be at 6 p.m., Nov. 15 and will feature chow mein.

A dance party is scheduled for Nov. 21 at 7 p.m. with a small band directed by Will McCanless. Each third Friday ballroom and square dancing music will be offered.

Boy Scouts, ages 12 to 14, are available on weekends to run errands, do small chores and play games. For this service, leave your name, address and telephone number at the Heritage House office.

Job Swap, a new innovation, allows men and women to do small favors for others. If there is something that needs to be done, name it. There will be someone who can do that service and you may return a favor for your helper.

Household hints

Get out that pressure cooker and use it on occasion for a dish you usually prepare in the oven because surface heat uses less fuel than oven heat.

Household hints

When you are freezing leftover turkey and dressing put the meat and the stuffing in separate small containers. The use of small containers is advised so that the center of the package as well as the sides will freeze quickly. Microbiologists suggest this method as a safeguard against food poisoning.

ABC apologizes to MU for football halftime segment

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — The American Broadcasting Company apologized for the halftime film segment shown during the Missouri-Nebraska football game Saturday.

The film showed students interviewed at a local bar intimating that Missouri was a party school.

Producer Chuck Howard of the American Broadcasting Company wired the following statement to Carrie Francke, president of the Missouri Students Association:

"I disagree we, in any way, insulted the University of Missouri in our telecast Saturday. What was attempted was to portray an honest assessment of the importance of intercollegiate football to the undergraduate student body of the University of Missouri. I am sorry if the segment offended any members of what is a first class university."

The interviewer in the film asked the students, "What do you do out here 150 miles from nowhere when the football season is over?"

One of the girls replied, "We just live for football. Nothing else is important, classes or anything else. We just live for Friday, when we start to party and get ready for the game."

Another commented that Missouri was not "academically inclined." Still another said, "Football is important here."

Several complaints of the handling of the film segment were received at the university. There were no organized campus protests or demonstrations.

"We weren't directly involved in organizing the filming," said Mel Sheehan, Missouri athletic director. "If we were misrepresented, which I would agree we were from what I've heard, there is no way to correct it, if we don't get a chance to be televised again."

David Lindstrom, a Columbia city councilman, said, "To think that the university is only an institution that lives for football is pretty demeaning in itself. It was an extremely unfortunate interview. I think both the network and the individuals who granted the interview should do some rethinking and try to present a more accurate picture."

Malden council curbs mayor's expense account

MALDEN — The Malden City Council has asked Mayor Sparrel Davis to keep records of his expenditures, turn in expense vouchers and obtain council permission for any expense over $100.

This action came in a special meeting Oct. 29, when the council met with representatives of Chambers and Lang Bookkeeping Service and the city attorney to discuss city finances.

Mayor Davis receives a salary of $250 per month and has, in the past, received an additional $250 per month for expenses.

Davis said the $250 per month for expenses is the result of a meeting of a past finance committee and that when he assumed office for his present term he began receiving the check.

According to the mayor, the $250 expense money is little enough for the endless calls, countless problems of the city both in and out of the city which are made on a daily basis. He gave the example of use of his auto and three hours spent at a Boy Scout recognition dinner Monday night.

"Had I not been mayor, I would not have been involved and I would not have attended the dinner. As the mayor, it is my privilege to welcome the scouts to the new community center," he said.

Davis said he did not believe the council considered like requirements demanded of his office and that he did not intend to submit a voucher for "every little trip" he made on behalf of the city.

The council asked the city attorney to check the legality of the expenditures of the community (building) center. The council agreed that if any illegal expenditures from revenue-sharing funds have been made, they should be corrected.

Davis said he estimated $41,000 has been spent on the center and that all expenditures have been legal.

The council discussed Councilman Floyd Lee drawing an expense account rather than a salary because he was drawing full benefits from Social Security and his income was limited to that entitled by Social Security. Lee reportedly stated that if he cannot be paid by an expense account, he would donate his entire pay to the Retired Seniors Volunteer Program in order to remain on the council.

It was also determined that City Council members were, based on the opinion of the city attorney, legally entitled to health insurance. The city has been paying the premiums on health and hospitalization insurance for members of the City Council, the mayor and other elected officials. This amounts to $26.33 per member per month.

Kiwanians hear about honey

Jim Stewart of Matthews described the honey business to Kiwanis Club members Tuesday night at the El Capri Restaurant.

Stewart, who is in the business with his father, E.W. Stewart, said their beehives are located from Arkansas to just north of Sikeston. Honey from their operation is packaged in 55-gallon drums and sold to processors.

The Stewarts consider bees as livestock in that they must be fed during the winter. Stewart also described the important part bees play in the pollenization of blooming crops.

Fruit cakes were distributed to members by Jim Hux, chairman of the fruit cake promotion.

It was announced that the Farmer's Recognition Banquet scheduled Tuesday night will replace the regular Kiwanis meeting.

On the back of the Great Seal of the United States, which appears on the $1 bill, is an unfinished pyramid, a symbol of material strength, an enduring foundation for future growth and a goal of perfection.

Monday is an 'off daze'

By JACKIE SCHOENEMAN

Monday off. It did not sound like much of a threat on the face of it. But when The Daily Standard began publishing a Sunday edition, Monday, as a working day, was axed.

Also axed was not only my work week equilibrium but my off-hour pace. I'm firmly convinced a person has a routine that affects his personal life as well as time spent at the office. Your body and mind send out signals to keep everything in harmony.

A bunch of bally-hoo? No so. The first crossed signal occurred about 3 a.m. the first Monday. I tossed and turned only because my mind was in a turmoil over whether to be prepared to wake up in a few hours for work or to snuggle down into the covers for Monday – my day off.

The whole Monday experience, however, is laced with guilt. While driving down the highway, I see truckers movin' goods in a romantic sort of way across the nation. Meanwhile, I'm going to the grocery store for lettuce and tomatoes.

And while munching lazily on salad to stretch the noon hour, harried secretaries fox trot it back to the office before the 1 p.m. lunch hour deadline. It's the working world and I'm not part of it.

The TV drones on sleepily with soap operas while preschool youngsters in the park scream with delight at their leisure time.

The apartment house is quite. Almost everyone is punching the time clock. At home, I slam doors and bang down glasses for a little life.

Weirdly enough, trying to coordinate grocery shopping, washing clothes and so on becomes insurmountable. What happened to tougher problems? they're at the office and I am not.

People on the street or in a parking lot look at you with scolding eyes.They are thinking either I lost my job or am taking sick leave that isn't. All because Monday has become my day off.

A whole day of housework is mind-blowing. Dirt pops out in every crook and cranny because I was too busy to find it before. Cleanliness is next to godliness but I'm not pushing for a favor.

I want my Monday working day back so Tuesdays will again be free of the Monday blues.

And the dirt gets another reprieve from my Monday-day-off frustration.

Pulitzer winner criticizes stories on Watergate

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — Bob Woodward, one of the two Washington Post reporters who won the Pulitzer Prize for their Watergate stories, criticized those who continue to dwell on the Watergate affair.

"I think anybody who's clamoring for more is sort of clamoring for more blood," Woodward said Wednesday night at Yale University's Trumbull College.

"I think we know what happened in Watergate and I think it would be a healthy thing for the country to get to other matters that loom very, very large," he said.

Mrs. Dot Halstead, executive secretary of the New Madrid Chamber of Commerce, arranges watercolor sketches of red-tailed hawks by artist David Plank, whose watercolors, drawings and prints of birds of Missouri and the Midwest will be featured in an exhibition opening Sunday at the New Madrid Museum and Chamber of Commerce building. First of monthly art exhibits slated

NEW MADRID–Watercolors, drawings and prints of birds of Missouri and the Midwest by artist David Plank will be featured at the first art exhibit to be held in the newly opened New Madrid Museum and Chamber of Commerce building, No. 1 Main St.

An open house and reception from 1 to 5 p.m. Sunday has been planned for the exhibit opening and for the public to meet the guest artist, according to Mrs. Dot Halstead, executive secretary of the Chamber of Commerce.

The exhibit marks the first in a series of monthly exhibits at the museum, featuring various art media prepared for the touring exhibit program of the Missouri State Council on the Arts.

Plank, 41, who was born at Salem, grew up in a rural setting close to nature. As a young boy he was fascinated by the birds and mammals of his native Ozark area.

He started sketching birds at an early age, and now over 7,000 sketches later, his keenly developed powers of observation and sensitive artistry are apparent in his rendering of the birds of Mid-America.

All Plank's paintings are based on sketches from life, done in many hours of field observation.

Plank's works will remain on display at the museum through November.

Val Mitchell honored 'Citizen of the Year'

MALDEN—C.L. "Val" Mitchell, retired businessman, is Malden's Citizen of the Year for 1975. Mitchell and six other local men were honored Monday night at the Malden Lions Club's first community service awards dinner.

Distinguished citizen certificates of appreciation for dedicated services to the community, their church and their fellow men were presented to Mitchell, Ray J. Moreau, Raymond Santie, John A. Downing, Wilbur Thornton and Allen Black.

A similar award was presented posthumously to Mrs. Otto Green in recognition of the many years of dedicated community service of the late Charles Otto Green.

A special plaque was presented to Mitchell designating him as Citizen of the Year by Jack B. Chadsey, master of ceremonies.

Chadsey paid tribute to Mitchell for the many years of outstanding services on behalf of the community. He pointed out that Mitchell came to Malden in 1916 from Memphis and has been a vital part of the city ever since. He has served his community in various and sundry capacities over the years.

He served as a member and also as chairman of the Board of Public Works for many years. He has served as a member of the County Highway Commission since 1941. He was instrumental in helping to secure Malden's first major industry, Reed Shirt Manufacturing Co., back in the late 1930s. He has served on numerous United Fund boards and other charitable organizations. A devout Christian, he has been a staunch supporter of the Presbyterian Church and has served on boards of the Presbyterian Orphans Home and The School of the Ozarks. He is one of the charter members of the Malden Lions Club, founded in 1925.

E.M. Diersing, president of the Malden Lions Club, said that a special committee assisted a Lions Club committee in making the nominations for the awards.

The dinner was held at the Chat 'n Chew Restaurant. Entertainment was provided by the Malden High School chorus.

SAN FRANCISCO PLAYS IN CONCORD

CONCORD, Calif. (AP) — The San Francisco Symphony will play five concerts at the new Concord Pavilion, starting Aug. 15 with an all-Beethoven program.

On Aug. 16 Andre Watts will be pianist for Tchaikovsky's "Piano Concerto No. 1." On Aug. 22 Edo de Waart will conduct an all-Brahms program highlighting Misha Dichter in the "Piano Concerto No. 2." On Aug. 23 Metropolitan Opera mezzo-soprano Marilyn Horne will sing with the orchestra. The final concert on Aug. 27 will be conducted by Seiji Ozawa and will include the West Coast debut of "Three Space" (Ten, Chi, Jim) composed by Kei Anjo, Toshi Ichiyanagi and Naozumi Yamamoto.

Today in U.S. history

By The Associated Press

Today is Thursday, November 6, the 310th day of 1975. There are 55 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1860, Abraham Lincoln was elected the 16th president of the U.S.

On this date:

In 1792, George Washington was re-elected president.

In 1913, the British arrested Indian nationalist Mahatma Gandhi.

In 1926, Benito Mussilini prohibited all opposition parties in Italy.

In 1928, election returns showed that Herbert Hoover had defeated Alfred Smith in a hard-fought presidential contest.

In 1942, a tidal wave killed 10,000 people in India.

In 1956, Dwight Eisenhower was the winner in a presidential election, defeating Adlai Stevenson.

Ten years ago: Cuba and the U.S. agreed on an arrangement to airlift 3,000-4,000 emigrants from Cuba to the U.S. each month.

Five years ago: Italy formally recognized Communist China.

One year ago: the Soviet Union called for Palestinian statehood as part of any Middle East settlement.

Today's birthday: novelist James Jones is 54 years old.

Thought for today: Never buy what you do not want because it is cheap. — President Thomas Jefferson, 1743-1827.

Searching for Treasure Creates Exciting Life

TREASURE HUNTER—H. Beasom Painter, shown aboard the 30-foot Chinese junk that sits in front of his home in Richland, Wash., is a veteran of expeditions that have taken him all over the world in search of archaeological artifacts.

RICHLAND, Wash. (AP) — The Pacific Ocean is 200 miles from the home of H. Beasom Painter, but the 30-foot Chinese junk that sits in front of his house — with its intricately carved dragons and teak decks — is not out of place if you know the man.

For he is a treasure hunter who has been to "The Sacred Well" on Mexico's Yucatan Peninsula; searched for sunken gold intended for Jamestown; and slept with natives on the jungle floor, braving snakes and nine-inch tarantulas.

Besides being an engineer at the Fast Flux Test Facility at Hanford, Painter is a member of Expeditions Unlimited, a Pampano Beach, Fla., corporation specializing in recovering valuable archaeological artifacts.

Although the company still conducts expeditions all over the world, Painter's last trip for it was in 1968 when he directed excavation of a sacrificial well in the old city of Chichen Itza, built by the Mayan Indians. He said the well was used by the Mayans more than 1,000 years ago to pay tribute to their rain god, Chac.

To satisfy Chac, the Indians threw in great quantities of gold and jewels — and children. The expedition found remains of 400 persons.

"Most of the ones we found were those of young boys, and not virgins as depicted in history," Painter said as he fingered a small gold ring recovered from the well.

He said most of the jewelry and artifacts recovered are now on display in Mexican museums.

"It's hard to put a value on those artifacts," he said. them priceless."

Painter learned his traveling ways from his contractor father who traveled about the world, spending many years in China, where Painter grew up.

Painter, who is "somewhere over 40," wears his graying hair in a short pony tail. He said his job at Hanford has allowed him more time for his family, and he has turned down several offers from Expeditions Unlimited, one of which was a search for Inca gold in the Ecuador jungles.

"Beasom Painter is the kind of guy who will get things done when other people say it can't be done," said Norman Scott, Expedition Unlimited president, in a telephone interview. "I need people who will keep their cool and stay together, even in nerve wracking situations."

4-H'ers Star In Home Management Roles

The spotlight this year is on 114,000 girls and boys 9-19 in the national 4-H home management program sponsored by Tupperware Home Parties. Under the supervision of the Cooperative Extension Service, 4-H'ers learn by doing to set realistic goals, put their plans into action and evaluate the results—all steps to starring roles in the management scenario.

CHICAGO—"Americans tend to think of money as their only valuable resource," says Carolyn Gaddis, family resource management specialist with the Louisiana Cooperative Extension Service.

"However," she says, "It's important to look closely at another resource that we seem to have less and less of as we become busier and busier. That resource is time."

Use resources to advantage

Time, money, energy, skills, material things, brain power: all are valuable resources. Learning to mobilize them to reach specific personal and household goals are 114,000 girls and boys from 9 to 19 in the national 4-H home management program.

4-H'ers will be aided this year by "Spotlight on Management," a new 32-page member manual in "lights, camera, action" format. The manual was developed jointly by the Cooperative Extension Service, the National 4-H Service Committee, and Tupperware Home Parties. It focuses on the four steps to effective management: setting a goal, planning how to reach it, acting to put the plan in motion, and checking up on the results.

Learning by doing

4-H members learn that decision making is what management is all about. They might tackle family food bills and come up with cost-cutting techniques. Or organize personal work schedules that set realistic goals and conserve time and energy.

Whatever projects they choose, 4-H'ers can earn awards donated by Tupperware Home Parties and arranged by the National 4-H Service Committee. Eight outstanding 4-H'ers are awarded national college scholarships of $1,000.

Deaths

Thelma Tilley

ZANESVILLE, Ohio - Thelma Irene Janie Tilley, 67, formerly of the Sikeston, Mo., and Matthews, Mo., areas, died Wednesday at her home of an apparent heart attack.

Born Oct. 21, 1908 in Red Rock, Ark., she was the daughter of Mrs. Ada Ewing of 835 Anderson St., Sikeston, who survives, and the late C. A. Ewing.

On Jan. 19, 1923, she married J. N. Tilley, who survives.

In 1941, they moved to the Sikeston area and farmed near Matthews until 1955 when they moved to Zanesville.

Other survivors include one son, Bill Tilley of Zanesville; four daughters, Ruth Tittman of McClary, Wash., Lavern Lollar of Breese, Ill., Sammie Hardin of Cahokia, Ill., and Sue Lacky of Zanesville; one sister, Edith Parsons of Sikeston, Mo.; and 15 grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

Friends may call at Bryans Funeral Home, where services are scheduled Monday.

Burial will be in St. Paul's Cemetery.

Della Fowlkes

CHARLESTON--Della Fowlkes, 85, died at 4 a.m. today in Missouri Delta Community Hospital at Sikeston.

The body is at McMikle Funeral Home, where arrangements are incomplete.

Bob Vanderbilt

CHARLESTON--Bob Vanderbilt, 84, of 701 Swank Street died at 3:55 p.m. Tuesday in Missouri Delta Community Hospital at Sikeston, following an illness of several weeks.

He was born Dec. 12, 1891, and had lived in Mississippi County since 1962.

He left no known survivors.

The body is at Sparks Funeral Home, where arrangements are incomplete.

Mose White

CHARLESTON--Services for Mose White, 80, who died Sunday, are scheduled at 2 p.m. Friday in Mercy Seat Baptist Church with the Rev. J.W. Warford officiating.

Burial will follow in Oak Grove Cemetery.

Friends may call tonight at Sparks Funeral Home.

J.L. Phillips

BERTRAND--Services for Joseph Layton Phillips, 94, who died Wednesday, are scheduled at 2 p.m. Friday in First Baptist Church with the Rev. Lee Fansler, pastor, officiating.

Burial will follow at IOOF Cemetery near Charleston.

William Sawyer

SUMMIT, Ill.--William Dallas Sawyer, 39, formerly of Marston, Mo., died Monday.

Born March 11, 1936 in Bragg City, Mo., he was a son of Katie Mae Robbins of Marston, who survives, and the late William D. Sawyer.

He was employed as a maintenance worker by the city of Chicago.

Services are scheduled at 2 p.m. Friday in DeLisle Funeral Home at Portageville, Mo., with the Rev. Johnny Little officiating.

Burial will be in Portageville Cemetery.

Cape man charged iwth hash import

NEW YORK (AP) — A Missouri antique dealer and an Illinois photographer were being held in lieu of $15,000 bail after they were charged Wednesday with bringing $4 million worth of hashish from Iran in a camper.

Frederick S. Leuckel, 25, of Cape Girardeau, Mo., and Joseph Sherlag, 27, of Cambria, Ill., were accused of illegally importing 1,000 pounds of the drug. Authorities said the drug was worth $2 million wholesale and about twice that amount on the street.

The hashish was concealed in foil-wrapped bricks under the truckbed of the camper, which was shipped to New York from Iran aboard the freighter Arya Pas, authorities said. A trained dog sniffed out the hashish while the van was still aboard the freighter after its arrival Oct. 26, officials said.

Leuckel and Sherlag could get a maximum of five years in prison and $15,000 fine each on the charges.

The Himalayas are located on the southern edge of the Plateau of Tibet. Most of the world's highest mountain peaks are found there.

New 4-H president

Club officers

gone.

Bell, who is employed by the Missouri Commission on Human Rights, said he put the brief cases down beside his car early Wednesday morning and then forgot about them.

He said he discovered them missing when he got to Caruthersville. He returned to Sikeston about 9 a.m. and the brief cases were gone and had not been turned in at the motel desk.

He said the brief cases and their contents, mostly papers and cassette tapes, were valued at $70.

Scouting award given to couple from Malden

MALDEN — Mr. and Mrs. Dean Noe, Route Two, were among persons honored at the Sioux Boy Scout District recognition dinner Monday evening in the Malden Community Center. Mr. and Mrs. Noe each received the Award of Merit, the highest award presented within the district.

As the award was presented to Mrs. Noe, Bill West of Dexter, who made the presentation, remarked that it was the second time in the history of the Sioux District that the award had been presented to a woman. Others in the crowd of approximately 75 persons could not recall a simultaneous presentation to husband and wife.

The couple received the awards for their efforts in scouting, community affairs, church work and working with youth other than scouting.

Cliff Manlove of Dexter also was presented the Award of Merit, and West was presented the Silver Beaver, which is the highest award in the council.

Sioux District officers elected were Manlove, chairman; L. D. Fish, Lilbourn, vice chairman; Mack Whatley, Gideon, district commissioner; Carl Townsend, Malden, activities chairman; Bill Jones, Lilbourn, advancement chairman; Bob Keathley, Bernie, finance chairman; and Tom Womack, Parma, round-table commissioner.

Mayor Sparrel W. Davis welcomed the group, and the Malden High School jazz band, under the direction of Mrs. Dorothy Faughn, provided the entertainment.

'March of Conquest' begins

KILOMETER EIGHT, Inside Spanish Sahara (AP) — In scenes reminiscent of a biblical epic, tens of thousands of Moroccan volunteers walked 5½ miles through a blinding dust storm in searing desert heat today on their "March of Conquest" into the Spanish Sahara.

They walked for three hours to a point just four kilometers (2½ miles) away from the Spanish so-called "dissuasion line" of alleged minefields, barbed wire and heavy armored units. No incidents were reported.

A senior police officer controlling the march said, "We will stay here overnight and tomorrow morning, we will see."

The Moroccan government radio said the volunteers jubilantly hoisted the Moroccan flag over a Spanish fort as they began their march.

The Spanish cabinet met in Madrid to discuss the march into the disputed territory. A Spanish government official said the column was nearly a half mile wide and a little over a mile inside the border when the cabinet began meeting.

An eyewitness account of the march, broadcast by the Moroccan government radio, said four Spanish F5 jet fighters continuously overflew the marchers at very low altitude "but failed to intimidate them," and that two Spanish helicopters hovered nearby, observing the progress of the marchers.

The advance column encountered no opposition, the Moroccan radio said. Spain and Algeria had threatened military action and Spain warned that a minefield waited eight miles inside the border of the disputed territory. The Spanish army pulled back eight miles from the border last week.

A commentator who said he was broadcasting from the border said all the unarmed marchers who had massed there before dawn crossed into the Spanish colonial territory near the white-painted border fort of Tah, and soon hoisted the Moroccan flag over its walls.

He did not say how many persons were in the first wave, but said Premier Ahmed Osman and other high-ranking officials were with the marchers. An earlier broadcast said thousands of trucks and buses carried marchers from the tent camps around Tarfaya to the border 18 miles to the south.

Gomez did not say whether Spanish troops had orders to open fire on the marchers.

Could you use four more exemptions on your Federal income taxes?

A husband and wife interested in a tax-deductible retirement program may now qualify for a Metropolitan Individual Retirement Annuity (IRA).

A working couple with no pension plan other than Social Security may each have a separate IRA and may both contribute up to the maximum based on their separate earnings: 15%, or up to $1,500—whichever is less. Together, they may annually contribute as much as $3,000 to their tax-sheltered retirement fund, if their earnings permit the maximum contribution by each.

And even if only a husband or wife is eligible, as a couple, they still enjoy added tax benefits with only one member of the family enrolled in an IRA.

Call me if you're interested in discussing the possibility of the equivalent of two or four more exemptions on your Federal income tax.

Greg Johnson honored in 3-A; Indians still ranked third

Charleston Bluejay tailback Greg Johnson has been chosen as Class 3-A Player of the Week, and Southeast Missouri's only team among the top ten statewide in their class, Jackson, clung to the third spot in Class 3-A, according to the latest Missouri High School Football Poll as released by the Missouri Sportswriters and Sportscasters Association.

Johnson rushed for 219 yards and three touchdowns in the Bluejays' 33-27 upset of Poplar Bluff to earn him the Player of the Week honors. It marked the second week in a row that a Semo player had received such recognition. Jackson's Mark Dumey received the honor two weeks ago.

Dumey's team, the Indians, held on to their number three position among 3-A schools with an impressive 14-0 victory over Sikeston. The Class 3-A poll was identical to the one a week ago, with all ten teams claiming victories.

The biggest shakeup came in class 4-A, where Kirkwood took over the top spot. St. Louis Southwest, which had been ranked number one, lost to Sumner 6-0 and fell to fourth in the poll. Horton Watkins, last week's number two 4-A squad, also lost and is now ranked fifth. Raytown South quarterback Mark McIntosh, who passed for 269 yards and two TD's against Hickman Hills, was voted 4-A Player of the Week.

Country Day retained their one-two rankings in Class 2-A, but Seneca, ranked third last week, lost to Bentonville, Arkansas and fell all the way to eighth. Most of the other 2-A teams gained a position in the poll. Osage halfback John Ash scored on touchdown runs of 80 and 84 yards for 2-A Player of the Week honors.

Orrick and Tarkio are still ranked one and two in Class A. Two new teams to the poll, Cass-Midway and Jasper, are now ranked ninth and tenth. Jasper's Carl Zaerr rushed for 150 yards against Lockwood to earn the Player of the Week award.

Here is this week's poll, with last week's position in parentheses:

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich. (AP) — Ron Wilson and Buzz Schneider posted two goals each Wednesday night to lead the U.S. Olympics team to its 18th hockey victory in 24 games, clobbering Lake Superior, 9-4.

Lake Superior's Bob Clemens also had two goals. The Lakers now are 2-1 for the season.

Sportsman calendar

By DALE FORBIS

'Way back in September you could see it starting. There was a good crowd at the first Sikeston football game against Farmington and a pretty good bunch followed the still- struggling team to Caruthersville. It seemed that the student body at SHS was determined to support their classmates and team members all year, despite any losses. Considering the totally rotten weather, there was also a good group onhand against Perryville and I remember many of them staying at the park after the game, dripping, unwilling to leave for just a while – savoring that first win. With five more wins in a row and outstanding crowds at road games against Charleston and Cape Central, the stage was set last Friday for a huge homecoming crowd and no one was disappointed. Well, actually we should say no one was disappointed by the size of the crowd. The game was disappointing, a 14-0 loss to a too- lightly regarded Jackson Indian team. Coaches stressed that Jackson was strong all week long and they had taught and taught, but it's just too hard to keep the fire and spirit high after an exhilarating win like the one at cape. Although the team did wake up and play good ball the last half against Jackson, it was (pardon the cliche) too little, too late.

According to at least one team member, Jackson was the best team Sikeston has faced all year. Losing to them was hard to take, but the deflation of defeat is tempered somewhat by the knowledge that the Indians are probably the district's toughest team. They have no more talent than Sikeston's next opponent, the Mules of Poplar Bluff, but they sure use what they have to its greatest extent. We salute coach Paul Webber and his assistants for assembling quite a football armada. We wish they had played a stronger schedule, because it may preclude their involvement in post season playoffs. We know that, if they make it, the Indians would be a fine representative of the district. What a shootout that will be when Jackson faces Charleston a week from this Friday -- that is if Jackson isn't involved in the playoffs. Complicated somewhat, isn't it?

This week's games present some problems and some supposedly "easy" picks:

SIKESTON AT POPLAR BLUFF — The Bulldogs are picked by the panel, 4-3, as favorites on the Mulle home turf. A Sikeston win clinches at least a part of the title for Sikeston and, surprisingly, Sikeston has been more successful against Mule teams at P.B. than at home. However, only a fool would take Poplar Bluff and the Moss Moving Machine too lightly. We're sure Sikeston won't and we feel the Mules may let down after being all but eliminated from the conference race by the Charleston Blue Jays last week. We'll lean to Sikeston because we are admittedly and unabashedly prejudiced, Sikeston 16, Poplar Bluff 14.

CHARLESTON AT CAPE — The Jays, with five wins in a row, are a 6-1 pick over Cape Central. The Tigers installed Lacey Bernard at quarterback and he got them 45 points, but the opponents were the hapless Kennett Indians. Cape's defense is tough, but Sikeston beat it and Charleston is a quicker offensive team than SHS. We think Cape's offense will move, but not enough against Greg Johnson, Ralph Mitchell and Clint Clark. The speedburners by two, Charleston 34, Cape Central 22.

PERRYVILLE AT JACKSON — Pity the poor Buccos! Jackson showed Sikeston fans a powerful defense and quick running backs. Perryville has trouble scoring against good defenses and that's just what they'll see at Jackson. Jackson 40, Perryville 0.

DEXTER AT KENNETT — We don't mean to undermine either team, but both are very weak this year. Dexter will be seeing a lot of big schools next year and, if they're going to beat any of them they will have to start somewhere. They'd like it to be at Kennett. Nobody will win this game, somebody will just lose it. The panel says Kennett in four of seven votes and we'll stick by the Indians. Kennett 7, Dexter 6.

CARUTHERSVILLE AT CHAFFEE — Caruthersville might have some temporary problems with that sticky Chaffee defense, but the Devils won't score, so the Tigers will stay on the winning track. Caruthersville 19, Chaffee 0.

EAST PRAIRIE AT GOSNELL — The point-hungry Eagles shouldn't have a lot of trouble runningup another embarrassing score on their opponents to the South. The panel goes a clean sweep for the 8-1 Eagles in their season's finale. East Prairie 42, Gosnell 13.

DONIPHAN AT HAYTI — The panel says 6-1 Doniphan. O-K, Doniphan it is. Doniphan 26, Hayti 6.

ILLMO-SCOTT CITY AT PORTAGEVILLE — The Rams have improved during the season and have an outside shot at a playoff spot. Portageville would like to end those hopes with an upset but the panel says nosir. Scott City 20, Portageville 8.

SOUTH PEMISCOT AT MALDEN — Malden is a solid pick. Greenwave 25, Bulldogs 13.

We'd like to start campaigning early for somekind of recognition for Sikeston quarterback Ron Priday after this season is over. With all the headlines given the duo of Wilder and Bean, Priday's accomplishments have been momentarily overlooked. He has averaged nearly 30 yards a game more total offense than the man in second, among the conference's single-callers, he has also been the catalyst that generated some ground-gaining by the offense. When the Bulldogs offense finally started to move, against Charleston, it was Priday's 124 yards leading the way. While his passing stats aren't eye-popping, Sikeston doesn't pass much at all, and more than a dozen of number 12's tosses have been dropped – that adds to quite a percentage when you've thrown just sixty times. Do your own comparisons with the stats we have available on the conference quarterbacks:

	Games	Rush. Yard.	Pass. Yard.	Total Yard.	Aver. Yard.
Baker, KENN	7	-92	532	440	62.9
Edington, PB	7	207	2629	469	67.0
Law, JACKSON	8	312	342	654	81.8
Hess, CHAR	8	50	671	721	90.1
Priday, SIK	9	653	390	1043	115.9

The point of the opening paragraph (which you can now reread, if the fish isn't wrapped in it), was that the crowds have been growing all year and we think now would be a rotten time to desert this hard-working Bulldog team. Actually, we harbor no deep seated fear that the Sikeston fans will leave their team and we are sure that they will go with the Bulldogs to Poplar Bluff for this all-important season's finale. From the sports staff at the Standard, Good Luck Bulldogs!

Mules next for SHS

By ROBERT VAUGHAN

Coach Horton was talking to the defensive players during their pre-game warm-ups.

"Do you know what those boys did to you?" he asked. "They dumped dirt, Jackson dirt, on your field. Do you like that?"

"NO!"

"Are you going to take that?"

NO!"

"Then what are you going to do about it?"

"Shove their faces in it," the boys shouted.

When Sikeston took the field before a huge crowd, they were psyched, primed, and ready. But the fortunes of the contest smiled favorably upon the Jackson Indians, and lightning struck twice in the first half.

When the Bulldogs returned to the locker room for the halftime break, they were down by two touchdowns,but not down in spirit. They took the field in the second half and played one of the best 24 minutes of football they've played all year. Twice they stopped Jackson inside our 20, and once inside our five yard line.

But Jackson played a brilliant defense. Even when forced to punt from their own endzone they refused to give us good field position and the punt sailed over the head of the Sikeston safetyman, and rolled an incredible 68 yards.

Sikeston was defeated, but the young gladiators weren't beaten. They fought doggedly until the very end, actually outgaining the Indians in the second half. They managed to preserve even in their defeat the pride and spirit they have brought to the 1975 football year.

This week, Sikeston plays the archenemy of all enemies when they meet Poplar Bluff. The Sikeston - Charleston rivalry is older, and very spirited, but most Sikestonians wish well for Charleston when we aren't playing them. Not so for Poplar Bluff. The Bluff game is of such intensity that the rest of the season pales in insignificance when the two teams take the field.

That's in a normal year. But this isn't a normal year. Sikeston is playing for the championship, and Poplar Bluff, which was on everybody's preseason poll as the number one conference team, suddenly finds themselves with two losses. They will be playing Sikeston to avoid the humiliation of being classified, on paper at least, as mediocre. They will be mad as wet hens, stung by their loss to Charleston, and anxious for revenge. And they'll be on their home ground.

PB's record doesn't fool anyone. They are a powerful, explosive football team. Right now, they are like a tiger who has just had a whisker pulled out. It's too late to slap the person who jerked the whisker, but for the next person to come along, watch out!

Sikeston is the next person. We meet them this Friday. Are we up to the challenge? On balance, I have to say yes. I have a gut feeling, (the same feeling which let me win a coke bet in the Charleston- Poplar Bluff game) which says that Sikeston is about to begin a new period of football dominance in Southeast Missouri. I believe that Sikeston is going to be a power to be reckoned with for the next three or four years. And the seniors of 76, the guys who will be playing in their last game, want a share of that. They deserve it, they fought and battled and scrapped until they put us on the ramparts of future glory ... so why shouldn't they have some of it for themselves?.

I think they can do it. I think they can go over to Poplar Bluff, on PB's soil, walk right up to the snarling tiger and jerk another whisker and say, "We are back, PB. What are you going to do about it?"

PHILADELPHIA (AP)— Philadelphia Eagles' running back James McAlister cut his right hand in practice Wednesday and is listed as questionable for Sunday's National Football League game with the St. Louis Cardinals here.

A team spokesman said McAlister, who gained 64 of the Eagles' 97 rushing yards in the 42-3 loss to the Los Angeles Rams Monday, had been slated to start against St. Louis. Tom Sullivan is the regular starter in the position.

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — The Professional Bowlers Association has announced the scheduling of an $80,000 tournament at Toledo's Imperial Lanes, April 6-10, one of 16 on the PBA winter tour.

Imperial Lanes has held a PBA even each year since 1966. The first tournament had a total of $38,000 in prize money.

Defending Toledo champion Louie Moore of Columbus, Ohio, will be back, along with such established PBA stars as Earl Anthony, Dick Weber, Carmen Salvino, Don Johnson, Ed Ressler and Jim Stefanich.

ATLANTA (AP) — Atlanta Manager Dave Bristol says the National League club has hired former base-stealing king Maury Wills to help tutor the Braves in that art next spring training.

"I talked to Maury at the World Series," said Bristol Wednesday, "and he said he'd be happy to help. He gave me the dates he would be available and his phone number."

Wills held the all-time base stealing record of 104 in one season until Lou Brock of the St. Louis Cardinals snapped it with 118 in 1973, 11 years after Wills' mark.

WORCESTER, Mass. (AP) — Ed Doherty, head football coach at Holy Cross, will leave for "personal and private reasons" after the current season.

School officials said a screening committee will be named to start considering applicants to replace Doherty, who has been coach of the Crusaders for five years.

Holy Cross, 1-6 meets undefeated Massachusetts at Amherst Saturday.

What's the law?

The case of the shiftless employe

By JACK STRAUSS, LL.B.

Mr. Popkin decided to have the room of his house repaired and hired Snuffy Wimple to do the job. And while Snuffy was a conscientious worker, he had an assistant who was such a steady worker he was practicly motionless. In fact, he hardly exerted himself at all.

As example, when he finished smoking a cigarete, instead of flinging it clear of the house, he simply flipped it onto the roof a few feet away from where he was standing.

A few minutes later, Mr. Popkins house was all aglow. It caught fire from the cigarette and Mr. Popkin sued Snuffy for the demise of his house.

"He can't sue me," protested Snuffy in court. "I didn't burn down his house and I didn't order anyone else to do it either."

"Maybe not," conceded Mr. Popkin, "but it was his shiftless employe who was to blame. Since Snuffy was responsible for putting him on my roof, Snuffy's now got to put a roof over me."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you order Snuffy to make good for the destruction of Mr. Popkin's house..

This is how the judge ruled: No! The judge held that smoking a cigarette is not part of an employe's job. Therefore, concluded the judge, liability for an employe's negligent smoking habits cannot be transferred to his employer.

Young men in a hurry seem to be prime candidates for heart attacks, as reported from a study of 3524 men aged 30 to 59. The man who is hard-driving, aggressive, competitive, highly ambitious, living under constant deadline pressures appears more likely to have a coronary attack than the placid, relaxed man. Fire guts McMahon apartment

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Entertainer Ed McMahon turned in the fire alarm too late and was burned out of his Marina Del Rey apartment.

"It totally gutted the place," McMahon said of the blaze Wednesday. "It melted pictures and frames right on the wall."

McMahon, who is Johnny Carson's sidekick on NBC's Tonight Show, ran from a shower when he smelled smoke but pulled the fire alarm just as firemen arrived to fight the blaze.

"At first I thought it was the hair dryer that I was using but then I saw flames jumping at both windows," McMahon said.

Firemen said the fire started in the apartment below McMahon's.

Brackish water is the name given to a mixture of fresh and salt water.

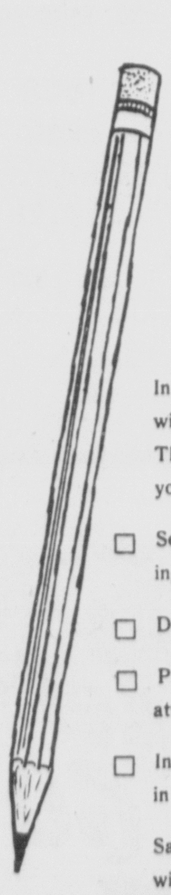
Put A Check On Your Use of Natural Gas



68
COOL IT

In four simple steps you can help save someone's job this winter by saving natural gas.
The gas shortage will hit industries hard, but here's how you can help soften the blow:

☐ Set your natural gas furnace thermostat at 68 degrees during the day, and lower at night.

☐ Don't heat rooms not in use.

☐ Properly insulate your home, with at least 6 inches in the attic.

☐ Install storm doors and windows. They'll pay for themselves in just a few winters.

Saving gas will save you money. But more importantly, it will save jobs. We estimate that if every home reduced its consumption of natural gas by following the above suggestions, we wouldn't have to curtail the industries at all.

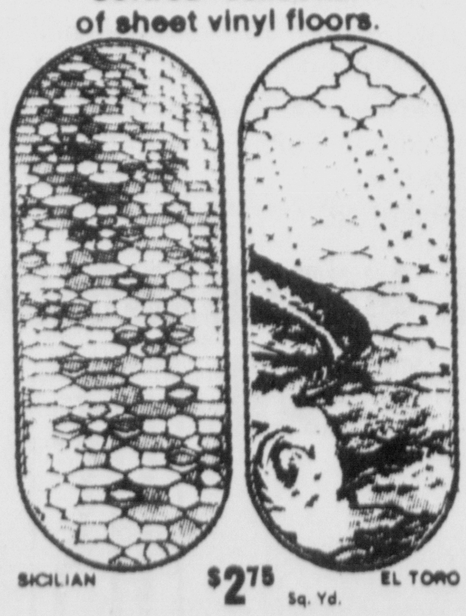
Softred® collection of sheet vinyl floors.



SICILIAN $2.75 Sq. Yd. EL TORO

GAF Softred is the vinyl flooring that gives you more for your money. Constructed with an unusually deep foam core that makes it cushion-soft, warm and quiet. And Softred never needs waxing — an occasional buffing restores its natural lustre. 9' and 12' widths.

Invest in a Baldwin piano...

your child will benefit from it for the rest of his life.

The benefits you offer your child when you give him a piano education go far beyond the ability to make music. In the process of learning to play the piano, he'll be learning some other important lessons that will stay with him for a lifetime. He'll be learning how to concentrate on a given task and how to persevere at it. He'll be discovering the satisfaction of self-expression. He'll be developing poise and self-confidence. To make sure your child benefits most from a piano, give him a good one, right from the beginning. He'll appreciate the difference and do better because of it.

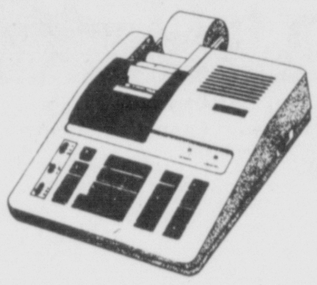
For the price of a good adding machine, you can have the silent electronic calculator with a big plus...

The Sharp Edge



$195.00

Until now, a lot of people have been forced into buying mechanical adding machines when what they really needed was a quality electronic printing calculator.

Well, now you've got it. The new Sharp CS-1151-the latest development of Sharp Qualitronics...built with the same measure of quality and dependability that goes into our largest programmable costing thousands. And yet the CS-1151 comes in at a price that the small businessman can easily afford.

But that's only the beginning. The CS-1151 has features you'd expect to find only on the higher-priced macines..or on Sharp. Features as rugged as Sharp's heavy-duty casing..or as pleasant as the complete silence of the CS-1151 between operations.

All in all, we'e justifiably proud of our new CS-1151. It's worthy of the name it carries..Sharp.
